smith hogan ormerod s criminal law is rightly regarded as the leading doctrinal textbook on criminal law in england and wales published in its first edition over fifty years ago it continues to be a key text for undergraduates and an essential reference source for practitioners

this is the first of three volumes of a treatise on the principles and practice of international criminal law from its foundations to its future volume 1 analyses the history and sources of international criminal law individual criminal responsibility the requirements for criminal responsibility and the grounds that exclude liability introduction actus reus mens rea interaction of actus reus and mens rea murder manslaughter non fatal offences against the person sexual offences property offences fraud general inchoate offences parties to crime denials of an offence general defences

we are said to face a crisis of over criminalization our criminal law has become chaotic unprincipled and over expansive this book proposes a normative theory of criminal law and of criminalization that shows how criminal law could be ordered principled and restrained the theory is based on an account of criminal law as a distinctive legal practice that functions to declare and define a set of public wrongs and to call to formal public account those who commit such wrongs an account of the role that such practice can play in a democratic republic of free and equal citizens and an account of the central features of such a political community and of the way in which it constitutes its public realm its civil order criminal law plays an important but limited role in such a political community in protecting but also partly constituting its civil order on the basis of this account we can see how such a political community will decide what kinds of conduct should be criminalized not by applying one or more of the substantive master principles that theorists have offered but by considering which kinds of conduct fall within its public realm as distinct from the private realms that are not the polity s business and which kinds of wrong within that realm require this distinctive kind of response rather than one of the other kinds of available response the outcome of such a deliberative process will probably be a more limited and a more rational and principled criminal law
