A CIA agent must rescue his partner and save millions of lives in this action-packed international spy thriller by a former intelligence officer. CIA operative Hayden Stone has his work cut out for him. Abdul Wahab seeks to make a power grab in the exotic land of Yemen and establish a terrorist base from which to launch an attack on Europe. Wahab lures Stone to Yemen by kidnapping his partner, CIA officer Sandra Harrington, in Sicily. Stone comfortably operates in this world where tribal leaders vie for power with the central government, al Qaeda exerts its influence through murder and mayhem, and double dealing among Bedouin and townspeople is a national pastime. And the light from the merciless desert sun can cloak the most potent of weapons. The cat and mouse game goes from the capital Sana'a to the deserts in the far east of the country and to the mountain villages in the north. Stone has a personal stake in this mission but can never keep his eye off the greater plot developing the one that puts millions in peril and that only he can stop. Kerns takes his readers into the shadowy world of international terrorism. Hayden Stone is a character worth rooting for, and Arthur Kerns is a talented storyteller. Sheldon Siegel, New York Times bestselling author.

In the 19th and early 20th centuries the Arabic speaking regions of the Ottoman Empire saw a crucial change in attitudes towards sexuality. Notions of respectability, propriety, and sexual morality were being transformed in literary and cultural discourses, a shift that was related to the gradual rise in anti-Ottoman Arab nationalism. However, contemporary orientalist writers such as Sir Richard Burton and T. E. Lawrence were oblivious to certain aspects of this process of cultural reconfiguration. While accounts of male love poetry (ghazal, al-mudhakkar) were being gradually expurgated from the Arab literary heritage, elaborate narratives of oriental homoerotic desire distinctively characterise the encounters of both Burton and Lawrence with the Arab East. By comparing their literary and autobiographical accounts of the Arab Orient with contemporary arabic literature feras al-kabani is able to expose this critical disparity in cross cultural portrayals of sexual morality and homoerotic desire al-kabani relates the conflicting agendas of contemporary orientalists and arab scholars to the shifts in international imperial power relations and the eventual collapse of the ottoman empire his detailed comparative study reveals the significance of homoerotic desire within orientalist and arab literary discourses at a time when the meaning and connotations of poetic male love were undergoing a critical change in arab culture and literature it will prove invaluable for those researching orientalism nationalism imperialism and manifestations of homoerotic desire in the fin de siècle middle east
