foundations of modern harmony by composer and music theorist karel janec ek addresses the analysis and composition of music not based on the tonal harmony that was common language until the early 20th century discussing this newer music requires a vocabulary in which all combinations of notes or chords can be named janec ek developed his theory of modern harmony over many years in this book he classifies chords according to their intervallic structure their possible arrangements and then based on their consonance and dissonance his focus on what we hear leads to a discussion of imaginary pitches those that are still heard after they are no longer sounding dealing with such issues as harmonizing a melody resolving dissonant chords and the formation and extinction of a sense of the tonic janěček s work is an exciting complement to the theories of schoenberg and hindemith his discussion of harmonic motion leads to the consideration of harmonic function of establishing the tonic of modulation of atonal composition and of static and kinetic conceptions of harmony first published in 1965 and translated into english for the first time janeček s concerns are of continuing importance to music theorists and composers a scientific treatment should not diminish but increase the general interest taken in character to bring together the various aspects of the subject which in literature are treated in isolation from one another to lead up to a general conception of it to study the methods by which the knowledge of it may be increased in accuracy and extent these are to make approaches to a scientific treatment of character while i have had chiefly to confine myself to a study of the tendencies of the emotions and sentiments this has been throughout my aim this book then is a study of method yet i do not claim that this method is essentially new it is in the main the hypothetical method of the sciences it has had to be adapted to the treatment of character that is all a complete science of mind would include a science of character the best approach to such a science is through the study of the primary emotions and their connected instincts this study is to be directed to an analysis of tendencies psycinfo database record c 2005 apa all rights reserved
