Real Time Strategic Change by Robert Jacobs advocates a complete redesign of the way organizations change and provides a practical guide through the entire change process.

Real Time Strategic Change is a way of redesigning how organizations change, a mindset and accompanying methodology that ensures that change occurs at a fast pace and in real time throughout an organization. Change occurs simultaneously within the whole organization. Buy-in, commitment, and ownership of a change effort is a natural byproduct of involving people in the process of change. People feel responsible for the ultimate success of the organization's change effort. Broad, whole-picture views of the organization's reality form the basis of information used to support people in making changes. Change is viewed as an integral component of people's real business. Substantial changes are made across an entire organization. The most successful organizations of the future will be those that are capable of rapidly and effectively bringing about fundamental, lasting, system-wide changes. In response to this challenge, Real Time Strategic Change advocates a fundamental redesign of the way organizations change. The result is an approach that involves an entire organization in fast and far-reaching change. Interactive, large-group meetings form the foundation for this approach, enabling hundreds and even thousands of people to collaborate in crafting their collective future. Change happens faster because the total organization is the in-group that decides which changes are needed, and the actions people throughout the organization take on a daily basis are aligned behind an overall strategic direction that
