the ultimate literary bucket list the washington post celebrate the pleasure of reading and the thrill of discovering new titles in an extraordinary book that s as compulsively readable entertaining surprising and enlightening as the 1 000 plus titles it recommends covering fiction poetry science and science fiction memoir travel writing biography children s books history and more 1 000 books to read before you die ranges across cultures and through time to offer an eclectic collection of works that each deserve to come with the recommendation you have to read this but it s not a proscriptive list of the great works rather it s a celebration of the glorious mosaic that is our literary heritage flip it open to any page and be transfixed by a fresh take on a very favorite book or come across a title you always meant to read and never got around to or like browsing in the best kind of bookshop stumble on a completely unknown author and work and feel that tingle of discovery there are classics of course and unexpected treasures too lists to help pick and choose like offbeat escapes or a long climb but what a view and its alphabetical arrangement by author assures that surprises await on almost every turn of the page with cormac mccarthy and the road next to robert mccloskey and make way for ducklings alice walker next to izaac walton there are nuts and bolts too best editions to read other books by the author if you like this you'll like that recommendations and an interesting endnote of adaptations where appropriate add it all up and in fact there are more than six thousand titles by nearly four thousand authors mentioned a life changing list for a lifetime of reading 948 pages later you still want more the washington post the first book length study of romance novels to focus on issues of sexuality rather than gender historical romance fiction moves the ongoing debate about the value and appeal of heterosexual romance onto new ground testing the claims of cutting edge critical theorists on everything from popular classics by georgette heyer to recent bodice rippers to historical fiction by john fowles and a s byatt beginning with her nomination of i love you as the romance novel's defining speech act lisa fletcher engages closely with speech act theory and recent studies of performativity the range of texts serves to illustrate fletcher's definition of historical romance as a fictional mode dependent on the force and familiarity of the speech act i love you and permits fletcher to provide a detailed account of the genre's history and development in both its popular and literary manifestations written from a feminist and anti homophobic perspective fletcher's subtle arguments about the romantic speech act serve to demonstrate the genre's dependence on repetition romance can only quote and the shaky ground on which the romance's heterosexual premise rests her exploration of the subgenre of cross dressing novels is especially revealing in this regard with its deft mix of theoretical arguments and suggestive close readings fletcher's book will appeal to specialists in genre speech act and performativity theory and gender studies dominated by darwinism and its numerous guises evolutionary theory presented opportunities and difficulties for late victorian novelists john glendening shows how a range of texts from the island of doctor moreau and dracula to heart of darkness address the interrelationship between order and chaos uncovered by evolutionary thinking his focus is on how these authors stressed not objective truths but rather the contingencies and confusions generated by theories of evolution tracing the shift from liberal to neoliberal education from the nineteenth century to the present day this open access book provides a rich and previously underdeveloped narrative of value in higher education in england value and the humanities draws upon historical financial and critical debates concerning educational and cultural policy rather than writing a singular defence of the humanities against economic rationalism zoe hope bulaitis constructs a nuanced map of the intersections of value in the humanities encompassing an exploration of policy engagement scientific discourses fictional representation and the humanities in public life the book articulates a kaleidoscopic range of humanities practices which demonstrate that although recent policy encourages higher education to be entirely motivated by outcomes fiscal targets and the acquisition of employability skills the humanities continue to inspire and aspire beyond these limits this book is a historically grounded and theoretically informed analysis of the value of the humanities within the context of the market
