how did the world come to be organized into sovereign states daniel philpott argues that two historical revolutions in ideas are responsible first the protestant reformation ended medieval christendom and brought a system of sovereign states in europe culminating at the peace of westphalia in 1648 second ideas of equality and colonial nationalism brought a sweeping end to colonial empires around 1960 spreading the sovereign states system to the rest of the globe in both cases revolutions in ideas about legitimate political authority profoundly altered the constitution that establishes basic authority in the international system ideas exercised influence first by shaping popular identities then by exercising social power upon the elites who could bring about new international constitutions swaths of early modern europeans for instance arrived at protestant beliefs then fought against the temporal powers of the church on behalf of the sovereignty of secular princes who could overthrow the formidable remains of a unified medieval christendom in the second revolution colonial nationalists domestic opponents of empire and rival superpowers pressured european cabinets to relinquish their colonies in the name of equality and nationalism resulting in a global system of sovereign states bringing new theoretical and historical depth to the study of international relations philpott demonstrates that while shifts in military economic and other forms of material power cannot be overlooked only ideas can explain how the world came to be organized into a system of sovereign states since the earliest days of warfare military operations have followed a predictable formula after a decisive battle an army must pursue the enemy and destroy its organization in order to achieve a victorious campaign but by the mid 19th century the emergence of massive armies and advanced weaponry and the concomitant decline in the effectiveness of cavalry had diminished the practicality of pursuit producing campaigns that bogged down short of decisive victory great battles had become curiously indecisive decisive campaigns virtually impossible in may june 1940 the germans demolished the french army inflicting more than 300 000 french casualties including more than 120 000 dead while many historians have focused on frances failure to avoid this catastrophe eugenia kiesling is the first to show why the french had good reason to trust that their prewar defense policies military doctrine and combat forces would preserve the nation
