it is important for christians and muslims to engage in respectful dialogue however it is not easy the present book delves into the past for wisdom and guidance spanish theologian martin perez de ayala 1504 66 wrote a catechism or catecismo that was not published until more than three decades after he had passed away why was the catecismo published posthumously the search for answers to this question involved evaluating the catecismo against thirteen other catechisms written in sixteenth century spain this assessment generated timeless principles that can be used today by those who wish to have cordial conversations about islam and biblical christianity with their muslim friends during the first half of the sixteenth century the spanish inquisition fought lutheranism in a benign way but as time passed the power struggle between those that favoured reform and the detractors intensified until persecution became relentless under the mandate of inquisitor general fernando de valdés the power struggle did not catch constantino by surprise but the tables turned faster than he had expected on 1 august 1558 constantino preached his last sermon in the cathedral of seville fifteen days later he was imprisoned constantino s evangelising zeal is evident in all his works but the core of his theology can be found in beatus vir where he deals with the doctrines of sin and pardon free grace providence predestination and the relationship between faith and works in his exposition of psalm 1 constantino does not resort to human philosophies but associates the spiritual fall of humanity with ugliness in his exhortation to the reader he states we shall plainly see the repulsiveness of that which seems so good in the eyes of insane men and the beauty and greatness of that which the divine word has promised and assured those who turn to its counsel in tongues of fire nancy farriss investigates the role of language and translation in the creation of mexican christianity during the first centuries of colonial rule spanish missionaries collaborated with indigenous intellectuals to communicate the gospel in dozens of unfamiliar local languages that had previously lacked grammars dictionaries or alphabetic script the major challenge to translators more serious than the absence of written aids or the great diversity of languages and their phonetic and syntactical complexity was the vast cultural difference between the two worlds the lexical gaps that frustrated the search for equivalence in conveying fundamental christian doctrines derived from cultural gaps that separated european experiences and concepts from those of the indians farriss shows that the dialogue arising from these efforts produced a new culturally hybrid form of christianity that had become firmly established by the end of the 17th century the study focuses on the otomangue languages of oaxaca in southern mexico especially zapotec and relates their role within the dominican program of evangelization to the larger context of cultural contact in post conquest mesoamerica fine grained analysis of translated texts reveals the rhetorical strategies of missionary discourse spotlighting the importance of the native elites in shaping what emerged as a new form of christianity farriss shows how their participation as translators and parish administrators helped to make evangelization an indigenous enterprise and the new mexican church an indigenous one
