this work is a multi disciplinary collection of essays from leading researchers and practitioners exploring legal ethical social psychological and practical aspects of surrogate motherhood in Britain and abroad divided into 15 chapters this book provides the reader with an insight into certain representations of mothers and motherhood in history and today's societies in some areas of the world notably in Britain and Asia key facts about the history of motherhood are presented together with the use of very recent notions and phrases portraying good and bad mothers an analysis of the concepts of naming and blaming along with regret with respect to mothers in 21st century societies provides food for thought other issues addressed are varied and numerous the politics of early intervention feminist critique mothers with disabilities and mothers of disabled children incarcerated mothers surrogate mothers teenage mothers lesbian mothers and mothering in Eastern Asia namely in China Japan and Korea interestingly both visual arts and literature play a crucial role in this analysis the publication will appeal to students academics researchers and the general public interested in and seeking to comprehend the shifts that have occurred over time in connection with the vast and inexhaustible subject of motherhood and mothers a private and public matter readers are also provided with a rich reference section dealing with the latest publications on the issues tackled by prominent academics and researchers in human geography women's studies sociology gender studies contemporary history and the arts the two phenomena highlighted in this edited volume motherhood mothering and masculinities are each recent areas of development in critical feminist and men's studies in contributing to these areas of gender studies this book draws attention to the fact that much can also be gained when we explore relationships between them an idea that may not readily come to mind while femininities and masculinities are co-constructed motherhood and mothering bring additional perspectives to the study of femininity that affect the construction of masculinity in complex ways the 12 chapters in this volume allow readers to ponder some of these complexities and may suggest other issues that require investigation spanning many continents the essays have both a global and historical reach emphasising cultural differences and historical changes of import is the idea that mothers have agency and are active in constructions affecting their lives they are able to bring motherhood out of the shadows as they strive to build re-evaluate or alter their roles within families and communities these have an impact on developments in masculinities the book is divided into three parts and the chapters investigate a wide range of issues including cultural constructs gender in parent child relationships non-binary developments the impact of war on mothering decolonisation struggles and much more the observation that mater semper certa est remains accurate under most legal systems in the world maternity is defined as the personal status filiation of a woman who gave birth to a child it is typically complemented by the fatherhood of the man from whom the child biologically originates often quem nuptiae demonstrant however in some states a kind of competitive way of acquiring the legal status of mother and father or homosexual parents a and b has been introduced via concluding a contract with a surrogate mother usually with a woman coming from poorer societies and with the assistance of professional intermediaries and organizers the postulates to change substantive family law or at least to recognize the effects of foreign law and procedures a kind of procreative tourism appear nowadays also in states generally prohibiting surrogate motherhood the issues discussed in this volume concern both national law and international court cases recent examples include the opinion of the european court of human rights of 10 april 2019 initiated by the french cour de cassation the judgement of the german bundesgerichtshof of 20 march 2019 and dilemmas of polish administrative courts focusing on the international perspective the present volume as well as an accompanying book in polish are the results of the international cooperation of over 30 experts from both member states and observer states of the council of europe the monograph is structured from the general to the detail and includes a comprehensive view as well from the issues of philosophy and sociology of law to human rights standards of national constitutions and international agreements to principles of ordre public of forum and their protection with measures of private public and penal law this allows readers including legislators and judges the better understanding of the fundamental legal problems that surrogate motherhood brings both in states where law creates them in a narrower or wider extent and in other countries of the world to which these problems can be imported with the movement of people and with de lege lata and de lege ferenda postulates traditional histories of war have typically explored masculine narratives of military and political action leaving private domestic life relatively unstudied this volume expands our understanding by looking at the relationships between mothers and children and the varied roles both have assumed during periods of armed conflict this expansive survey spotlights pervasive issues affecting girls and women s sexual and reproductive health across the lifecourse research from diverse countries around the world analyzes the complex relationships among biological psychological sociocultural and economic issues particularly in terms of inequities as they shape women s lives major challenges and possibilities for intervention are examined in their national context and with their global implications including child marriage motherhood reproductive care and access fertility childbearing contraception abortion hiv stis gender based violence sexual pleasure and menopause in these forceful dispatches a consistent numerous studies suggest that people with a variety of health concerns are increasingly turning to online networks for social support as a result the number of online support communities has risen over the past two decades global perspectives on health communication in the age of social media is a critical scholarly resource that examines the illness and pain and suffering narrative of health communication featuring coverage on a broad range of topics such as social networks patient empowerment and e health this book is geared towards professionals and researchers in health informatics as well as students practitioners clinicians and academics motherhood and military are often viewed as dichotomous concepts with the former symbolizing feminine ideals and expectations and the latter suggesting masculine ideals and norms mothers military and society contributes to a growing body of research that disrupts this false dichotomy this interdisciplinary and international volume explores the many ways in which mothers and the military converse align contest and intersect in society through various chapters that include in depth case studies theoretical perspectives and personal narratives this book offers insights into the complex relationship between motherhood and the military in ways that will engage both academic and non academic readers alike enhancing and encouraging female entrepreneurship research and participation new horizons and global perspectives in female entrepreneurship research is innovative contribution to business and enterprise

how we dispose of our rubbish choose the foods we buy enjoy art relate to our families and think about ourselves are just a few of the ways that ideas about nature shape our everyday ethical decisions nature and natural facts have long been used to make sense of why we act a certain way nature is a concept with great power when we describe something as natural or unnatural it has a moral force and political consequences we see this in moral panics about genetically modified foods the spread of government enforced waste recycling schemes concerns about assisted reproductive technologies our ideas about what is natural shape our ethical thinking in terms of how people live or want to live their lives but also in guiding our sense of morality justice and truth the idea of naturalness is essential to grasping anglo american cultures throughout history and in different places nature has had different forms meanings and moral valences it is a knowable fact but at the same time almost a divine principle that is ultimately unfathomable yet with the rise of new technologies there is increasing uncertainty about what we claim to be natural who we are how we are related to each other and how we should live this book examines the how ideas about nature and ethics overlap and separate across cultural species geographic and moral boundaries it compares the varied ways in which nature and ideas of naturalness pervade all aspects of people s lives from family relationships to the production and consumption of food to ideas about scientific truth in a world of increasing uncertainty nature remains a powerful concept the ultimate reference point invested with profound moral authority to guide our ethical behaviour this book was originally published as a special issue of ethnos

the book takes a holistic approach to highlight and explore the range of issues specifically associated with mothering and imprisonment from sentencing through custody to resettlement and focusing on the perspective of mothers and their children birthing a mother is the first ethnography to probe the intimate experience of gestational surrogate motherhood in this beautifully written and insightful book elly teman shows how surrogates and intended mothers carefully negotiate their cooperative endeavor drawing on anthropological fieldwork among jewish israeli women interspersed with cross cultural perspectives of surrogacy in the global context teman traces the processes by which surrogates relinquish any maternal claim to the baby even as intended mothers accomplish a complicated transition to motherhood teman s groundbreaking analysis reveals that as surrogates psychologically and emotionally disengage from the fetus they carry they develop a profound and lasting bond with the intended mother in the prevailing liberal ethos if there is one thing that is beyond the reach of others it is our body in particular and our person in general our legal and political tradition is such that we have the right to deny others access to our person and body even though doing so would harm those who need personal services from us or body parts however we lack the right to use ourselves as we wish in order to raise income even though we do not necessarily harm others by doing so even though we might in fact benefit them by doing so cécile fabre's aim in this book is to show that according to the principles of distributive justice which inform most liberal democracies both in practice and in theory it should be exactly the other way around that is if it is true that we lack the right to withhold access to material resources from those who need them we also lack the right to withhold access to our body from those who need it but we do under some circumstances have the right to decide how to use it in order to raise income more specifically she argues in favour of the confiscation of body parts and personal services as well as of the commercialization of organs sex and reproductive capacities while the practice of surrogacy has existed for millennia new fertility technologies have allowed women to act as gestational surrogates carrying children that are not genetically their own while some women volunteer to act as gestational surrogates for friends or family members others get paid for performing this service the first ethnographic study of gestational surrogacy in the united states labor of love examines the conflicted attitudes that emerge when the ostensibly priceless act of bringing a child into the world becomes a paid occupation heather jacobson interviews not only surrogate mothers but also their family members the intended parents who employ surrogates and the various professionals who work to facilitate the process seeking to understand how gestational surrogates perceive their vocation she discovers that many regard surrogacy as a calling but are reluctant to describe it as a job in the process jacobson dissects the complex set of social attitudes underlying this resistance toward conceiving of pregnancy as a form of employment through her extensive field research jacobson gives readers a firsthand look at the many challenges faced by gestational surrogates who deal with complicated medical procedures delicate work family balances and tricky social dynamics yet labor of love also demonstrates the extent to which advances in reproductive technology are affecting all americans changing how we think about maternity family and the labor involved in giving birth for more visit heatherjacobsononline.com this book examines the complexities of mothers who are entrepreneurs in different parts of the world this uniqueness and contribution to the area of women's entrepreneurship presents many challenges one must historicize context focus on socio political realms and on lived realities all challenging endeavours when focusing on mothering and entrepreneurship in different global contexts what of the workers in these contexts more specifically what of female workers within these contexts how have women negotiated gendered roles within old and new structures what complexities have preconfigured the diverse realities and positionalities of maternal workers how have these intricacies shifted the boundaries of work family interface this book focuses on a specific subset of work and the economy for mothers who are entrepreneurs in different parts of the world in this edited collection we examine how mothers are negotiating their entrepreneurial endeavors within the contexts of local and global economic shifts we explore how the socio cultural economic and national contexts that re structure and re frame multiple nodes of power difference and realities for mothers as workers across diverse contexts this type of contextual analysis allows for new lines of inquiry and questions that move beyond the descriptive profiling and gendered assessment of women entrepreneurs lastly the mother entrepreneur worker life balance frames our discussion we particularly set the work family discourse within many points of contentions related to how the researchers have conceptualized work life interface the specific assumptions embedded within these investigations and the implications of these for how we re present the dynamics related to mothering and entrepreneurship the participation of mothers within entrepreneurial space offers a rich site for analyzing the contextual nature of maternal identity work life relationships and entrepreneurial identities in so doing in the last two decades maternal scholarship has grown exponentially despite this however there are still numerous areas which remain under researched one of which is the experiences of marginalised mothers far from being a sentimental feel good account of mothering this collection speaks with the voices of mothers through the application of a matricentric lens in particular it speaks with the voices of those mothers who feel alienated or stigmatised mothers who have been rendered in this timely book lyn craig provides the first comprehensive account of how parents divide their time between caring for children housework paid work and leisure using large scale quantitative time use data the book provides a detailed analysis of the impact of children upon adult time this research reveals a unique picture of how parenthood affects daily life within households and how people s paid and unpaid workload is affected by parenthood by looking at how the costs and benefits of children are currently conceptualized and apportioned contemporary motherhood shows what becoming a mother entails and why it is so challenging to raise children suggesting an explanation for why fertility rates are dramatically dropping the book makes a significant contribution to the debate on contemporary motherhood and will interest scholars and students in sociology and social policy with an interest in the sociology of the family gender and sexuality and the sociology of youth

this book addresses the pressing challenges presented by the proliferation of international surrogacy arrangements the book is divided into three parts part 1 contains national reports on domestic approaches to surrogacy from argentina australia belgium brazil china czech republic france germany greece guatemala hungary india ireland israel mexico netherlands new zealand russia south africa spain ukraine united kingdom united states and venezuela the reports are written by domestic specialists each demonstrating the difficult and urgent problems arising in many states as a result of international surrogacy arrangements these national reports not only provide the backdrop to the authors proposed model regulation appearing in part 3 but serve as a key resource for scrutinising the most worrying incompatibilities in national laws on surrogacy part 2 of the book contains two contributions that provide international perspectives on cross border surrogacy such as the human rights perspective part 3 contains a general report which consists of an analysis of the national reports appearing in part 1 together with a proposed model of regulation of international surrogacy arrangements at the international level written by the two co editors paul beaumont and katarina trimmings the research undertaken by katarina trimmings and paul beaumont from 2010 to 2012 was funded by the nuffield foundation this title is included in bloomsbury professional s family law online service this volume is the first in a new springer series to examine one of humanity s most pressing concerns global migration and its implications for development as population mobility grows in an ever more crowded world the global forum on migration and development gfmd has emerged as the most important global mechanism to deal with the urgent challenges it presents this book explores fresh strategies proposed by the gfmd in its fourth year of operation in mexico and beyond interrogating the relationship between migration and development the papers advance the global forum s aims of reducing poverty and empowering low income families everywhere in 2010 there were 214 million international migrants worldwide nearly two and a half times the number in 1965 by 2050 international migration is likely to expand sharply in scale reach and complexity due to growing demographic disparities environmental change shifting global political and economic dynamics technological innovations and social networks migration can bring substantial gains to families in less developed countries and mobile labor is an axiomatic feature of the global economy yet outward migration of skilled workers can seriously retard development at home and exert pressure on wages in host nations balancing these and other conflicting concerns requires the substantive and expert discourse offered in this book contributors discuss and propose concrete solutions to vital issues such as the debilitating costs of cross border labor recruitment and the provision of social and income protection for foreign contract workers with suggestions on how to facilitate connections between transnational families and gender and family sensitive immigration regimes this book aims to foster collaborative intergovernmental links as well as partnerships between governments civil society and international organizations it shows how the gfmd can positively influence policy and institutional behavior while addressing wider systemic factors in protecting mobile workers
