in the age of globalism international marketers need to adopt a global perspective if they are to compete successfully international marketing a global perspective starts from the premise that any firm regardless of size can compete globally the challenge for today's manager is to identify and seize the opportunities most appropriate to their company international marketing a global perspective examines the main issues facing companies that want to compete successfully in the global marketplace it combines extensive coverage of the relevant theories with a practical approach to the issues written in a clear and accessible style it is divided into several sections covering assessing a potential market economically culturally and politically identifying cultural similarities and differences deciding which products to market internationally and how to price and promote them motivating marketing managers to compete globally building and implementing successful marketing strategies from making strategic decisions and choosing market positions and entry methods to developing a marketing plan using real world case studies and vignettes centred on contemporary problems and issues international marketing a global perspective will be ideal for undergraduates mba students and students following executive courses in international marketing or

strategy

Johansson's global marketing 5e utilizes a three pronged framework to organize the discussion of how to conduct global business foreign entry local marketing and global management Johansson seeks to develop the varied skills a marketing manager needs to be successful in each of these tasks the discussion progresses from how to market an existing product outside of the domestic market to how to develop a new product for specific local markets and then broadens the scope to discuss marketing and management topics from a global managerial perspective legal regulatory political and cultural issues are discussed as appropriate throughout the text excellent examples and cases many of which are drawn from the authors rich international experience help students move from concept to application

Global marketing provides students with a truly international treatment of the key principles that every marketing manager should grasp international markets present different challenges that require a marketer to think strategically and apply tools and techniques creatively in order to respond decisively in a fiercely competitive environment Alon et al provide students with everything they need to rise to the challenge coverage of small and medium enterprises as well as multinational corporations where much of the growth in international trade and global marketing has occurred a shift toward greater consideration of services marketing as more companies move away from manufacturing a focus on emerging markets to equip students with the skills necessary to take advantage of the opportunities that these rapidly growing regions present chapters on social media innovation and technology teach students how to incorporate these new tools into their marketing strategy new material on sustainability ethics and corporate social responsibility key values for any modern business short cases and examples throughout the text show students how these principles and techniques are applied in the real world longer cases provide instructors and students with rich content for deeper analysis and discussion covering key topics not found in competing books global marketing will equip students with the knowledge and confidence they need to become leading marketing managers a companion website features an instructor's manual with test questions as well as additional exercises and examples for in class use

Seminar paper from the year 2016 in the subject Business Economics offline marketing and online marketing grade 10 the FOM University of Applied Sciences Hamburg language English abstract This seminar paper evaluates the dimensions of standardized global marketing and local marketing for global companies by starting with a short insight into globalization and global firms in general followed by an illustration of the global local dilemma that forces a decision on the choice between selling the same product across all boundaries and the implementation of local marketing strategies in order to respond to regional differences the term paper continues with an explanation of local and standardized global marketing exemplified by the global players McDonald's and Apple and concludes with a comparison of both approaches the debate on standardization and adaptation in marketing has sparked a debate for decades dating back to Levitt who is one of the leading advocates of the standardization approach in marketing many other researchers followed Levitt's argument about the homogenization of consumer markets however critics of this thesis argue that just a few products can be easily standardized in a global manner Kotler argues that national marketing can't be simply extended to an international level as consumer behavior significantly varies depending on the country today virtually every major company is forced to compete in the global market and global marketers need to navigate through diverse cultures that go along with unpredicted rules and differences companies that are taking their business global and aim to successfully sell their products and services in foreign markets face many challenges the most challenging decision in this progress is the degree of standardization or adaptation in the firm's operations many companies have understood the importance of global activities
