when henry james wrote the reminiscences of his youth he shewed conclusively what indeed could be doubtful to none who knew him that it would be impossible for anyone else to write his life his life was no mere succession of facts such as could be compiled and recorded by another hand it was a densely knit cluster of emotions and memories each one steeped in lights and colour thrown out by the rest the whole making up a picture that no one but himself could dream of undertaking to paint strictly speaking this may be true of every human being but in most lives experience is taken as it comes and left to rest in the memory where it happens to fall henry james never took anything as it came the thing that happened to him was merely the point of departure for a deliberate and as time went on a more and more masterly creative energy which could never leave a sight or sound of any kind until it had been looked at and listened to with absorbed attention pondered in thought linked with its associations and which did not spend itself until the remembrance had been crystallised in expression so that it could then be appropriated like a tangible object to recall his habit of talk is to become aware that he never ceased creating his life in this way as it was lived he was always engaged in the poetic fashioning of experience turning his share of impressions into rounded and lasting images from the beginning this had been his only method of dealing with existence and in later years it even meant a tax upon his strength with which he had consciously to reckon not long before his death he confessed that at last he found himself too much exhausted for the wear and tear of discrimination and the phrase indicates the strain upon him of the mere act of living looked at from without his life was uneventful enough the even career of a man of letters singularly fortunate in all his circumstances within it was a cycle of vivid and incessant adventure known only to himself except in so far as he himself put it into words so much of it as he left unexpressed is lost therefore like a novel that he might have written but of which there can now be no question since its only possible writer is gone this fourteenth installment in the complete collection of Henry James's more than ten thousand letters records James's ongoing efforts to care for his sister, develop his work, strengthen his professional status, build friendships old and new, and maximize his income.
