museum pr actice edited by conal mccarthy museum practice covers the professional work carried out in museums and art galleries of all types including the core functions of management collections exhibitions and programs some forms of museum practice are familiar to visitors yet within these diverse and complex institutions many practices are hidden from view such as creating marketing campaigns curating and designing exhibitions developing fundraising and sponsorship plans crafting mission statements handling repatriation claims dealing with digital media and more focused on what actually occurs in everyday museum work this volume offers contributions from experienced professionals and academics that cover a wide range of subjects including policy frameworks ethical guidelines approaches to conservation collection care and management exhibition development and public programs from internal processes such as leadership governance and strategic planning to public facing roles in interpretation visitor research and community engagement and learning each essential component of contemporary museum practice is thoroughly discussed times are changing at historic house museums and no one is more aware of this than the fourteen contributors to interpreting historic house museums these respected museum professionals consider the history of house museums and the need to look at familiar issues from new perspectives and using new methods if your site isn t using a comprehensive interpretive plan how can you create one while doing so how do you address contemporary issues like race and gender don t forget the physical either does your property need a landscape plan as well as a furnishings plan and when your visitors arrive to see all your hard work how accessible is your property if the answer is not very what can and should you be doing to address that once inside how good are your tours and guides and does your furnishings plan allow visitors to maximize their experiences in areas without guides interpreting historic house museums captures the big picture and the important details its discussion of contemporary issues and successful programs its practical guidelines and information up to date references and lively illustrations will make it useful and relevant for both students and practicing professionals interpreting religion at museums and historic sitesencourages readers to consider the history of religion as integral to american culture and provides a practical guide for any museum to include interpretation of religious traditions in its programs and exhibits combining both theoretical essays and practical case studies from a wide cross section of the field the book explores how museums are finding new ways to connect with audiences about this important aspect of american history this book explores the practical and interpretive problems that museums encounter when they include religion in their interpretation how do we make sure visitors don t think the museum is taking the side of any particular religious group or proselytizing or crossing church state boundaries how do we spin out a rich story with the available artifact base what are the opportunities and perils of telling particular religious stories in a multicultural context these and other questions are addressed in a series of interpretive essays and case studies that capture the experimental and innovative religion programming that is beginning to find a place in american history museums an introduction by gretchen buggeln places the subject of religion and museums in the intellectual context of national and international scholarship case studies cover a range of topics and venues that include outdoor museums historic houses and exhibits interpretive issues of secular and sacred contexts and interpretive techniques like dialogue music and first person accounts a concluding essay suggests a publicly oriented historiography of religion for american museums and historic sites this book explores the histories and functions of museums while also looking at the current standing of museums and their ongoing efforts toward relevance resiliency and future proofing section i examines the beginnings of museums with chapters dedicated to art and design museums natural history and anthropological museums science museums museums focused history and the past and gardens zoos and children s museums emphasis is on museums in the united states with some historical framing beyond the u s section ii explores the primary functions of museums including conservation exhibition interpretation engagement and service section iii examines museums from within by exploring critical issues and contemporary movements facing museums and our society transparency and openness labor and equity belonging and coalition building risk taking and risk aversion and sustainability and empathy advocating for change rather than death to museums museums in motion demonstrates the very premise that museums have been in motion all along as they have shifted from their rather simple form of a treasury storehouse and tomb to something much more complex by deeply considering where museums have come from where they are today and where they are going entirely new to this edition section iii museum aspirations features five new chapters each centered around topics rather than a museum type or museum function each topic is meant to be a micro narrative and springboard for a conversation about museums today and their sustainability in the future the chapters examine museums from the inside museum workers and their voices especially as well as power held by people and institutions and deia without using those individual words as chapter headings on their own or in conjunction with the chapters in the previous sections of this book these chapters serve as vignettes that can help readers to understand where how and why we need to apply critical lenses to institutions and articulate how doing so helps us to understand this historical moment and ultimately how we can realize resiliency and sustainability for museums and those who make their existence possible many museum visitors rely upon content panels or labels to make meaning of what they are looking at but these labels do not always provide sufficient context for visitors this insufficient context can result in confusion or lack of interest especially for visitors without much prior exposure to art to assist visitors in making meaning beyond the provided label museum educators sometimes offer audio tours live programming and on occasion expensive technological solutions like the cooper hewitt s pen but the information included on the labels is often too sparse or not what museum goers need and the technological solutions are often too complex clunky distracting or overwhelming and require a great deal of maintenance in response to this problem i have developed a set of principles for designing accessible museum interpretation as well as designed labels digital resources multi way communication tools and an exhibition experience that exemplify those principles through international cases studies essayists in museums in a global context national identity international understanding consider the politics of museum interpretation in the global context issues of cultural patrimony and heritage tourism the risks of crossing boundaries and borders to present controversial subjects and strategies for engaging audiences and communities as art museums struggle to remain relevant they are moving beyond the traditional didactic toolbox and quickly adopting new avenues of interpretation aimed at improving visitor experience under its new name interpretive practices focus on flexible ways for visitors to explore and make meaning with the help of descriptive and other new types of resources these resources may include participatory activities alternative presentations of museum tours or the integration of digital technologies in support of this trend literature has emerged that offers a framework through which to examine the active production of current interpretive projects in museums through a theoretical lens this thesis analyzes the relationship of visitor identities with the various designs of interpretive tools and social interactions particularly specific examples of experimental interpretive practices currently being developed and implemented in museums that demonstrate developing trends in more progressive museum cultures will be discussed using academic research reports informal documentation and interviews with museum professionals this study examines and reflects on the processes in which museum educators and other museum staff are employing interpretive practices and coming to conclusions around the impact of their work museum gallery interpretation and material culture publishes the proceedings of the first annual sackler centre for arts education conference at the victoria and albert museum v a in london the conference launched the annual series by addressing the question of how gallery interpretation design and management can help museum visitors learn about art and material culture the book features a range of papers by leading academics museum learning professionals graduate researchers and curators from europe the usa and canada the papers present diverse new research and practice in the field and open up debate about the role design and process of exhibition interpretation in museums art galleries and historic sites the authors represent both academics and practitioners and are affiliated with high quality institutions of broad geographical scope the result is a strong consistent representation of current thinking across the theory methodology and practice of interpretation design for learning in museums the successful interpretation of art collections can be both challenging and contentious how to avoid damaging the relationship between viewer and art work how to tackle esoteric complex or controversial themes how to present the meaning of a work how to involve audiences for whom looking at art is an entirely new experience as galleries search for ever greater access inclusion and engagement in interpreting the art museum experienced museum professionals share some of today s most successful initiatives in art interpretation through thought provoking essays and illustrated case studies the work of leading international museums in interpreting both contemporary and classical art is explored including the art institute of chicago cleveland museum of art courtauld institute of art j paul getty museum moma van gogh museum and yale university art gallery this important collection explores different approaches to the facilitation of personal connections to art judith koke chief public programming and learning art gallery of ontario in this pioneering book christopher whitehead provides an overview and critique of art interpretation practices in museums and galleries covering the philosophy and sociology of art traditions in art history and art display the psychology of the aesthetic experience and ideas about learning and communication whitehead advances major theoretical frameworks for understanding interpretation from curators and visitors perspectives although not a manual the book is deeply practical it presents extensively researched european and north american case studies involving interviews with professionals engaged in significant cutting edge interpretation projects finally it sets out the ethical and political responsibilities of institutions and professionals engaged in art interpretation exploring the theoretical and practical dimensions of art interpretation in accessible language this book covers the construction of art by museums and galleries in the form of collections displays exhibition and discourse the historical and political dimensions of art interpretation the functioning of narrative categories and chronologies in art displays practices discourses and problems surrounding the interpretation of historical and contemporary art visitor experiences and questions of authorship and accessibility the role of exhibition texts new interpretive technologies and live interpretation in art museum and gallery contexts thoroughly researched with immediately practical applications interpreting art in museums and galleries will inform the practices of art curators and those studying the subject
