how and why did the life and music of ludwig van beethoven 1770 1827 matter to experimental writers in the early twentieth century previous answers to this question have tended to focus on structural analogies between musical works and literary texts charting the many different ways in which poetry and prose resemble beethoven's compositions this book takes a different approach it focuses on how early twentieth century writers chief among them e m forster aldous huxley wyndham lewis dorothy richardson rebecca west and virginia woolf profited from the representational conventions associated in the nineteenth century and beyond with beethovenian culture the emphasis of moonlighting falls for the most part on how modernist writers made use of beethovenian legend it is concerned neither with formal similarities between beethoven s music and modernist writing nor with the music of beethoven per se but with certain ways of understanding beethoven s music which had long before 1900 taken shape as habit myth cliché and fantasy and with the influence they had on experimental writing up to 1930 moonlighting suggests that the modernists drew knowingly and creatively on the conventional it proposes that many of the most experimental works of modernist literature were shaped by a knowing reliance on beethovenian consensus in short that the literary modernists knew beethovenian legend when they saw it and that they were eager to use it
