because of its promise to support human programmers in developing correct and efficient program code and in reasoning about programs automatic program synthesis has attracted the attention of researchers and professionals since the 1970s this book focusses on inductive program synthesis and especially on the induction of recursive functions it is organized into three parts on planning inductive program synthesis and analogical problem solving and learning besides methodological issues in inductive program synthesis emphasis is placed on its applications to control rule learning for planning furthermore relations to problem solving and learning in cognitive psychology are discussed education is intimately connected to many of the most important and contentious questions confronting american society from race to jobs to taxes and the competitive pressures of the global economy have only enhanced its significance elementary and secondary schooling has long been the province of state and local governments but when george w bush signed into law the no child left behind act in 2002 it signaled an unprecedented expansion of the federal role in public education this book provides the first balanced in depth analysis of how no child left behind nclb became law patrick mcguinn a political scientist with hands on experience in secondary education explains how this happened despite the country s long history of decentralized school governance and the longstanding opposition of both liberals and conservatives to an active reform oriented federal role in schools his book provides the essential political context for understanding nclb the controversies surrounding its implementation and forthcoming debates over its reauthorization how the struggle to define the federal role in school reform took center stage in debates over the appropriate role of the government in promoting opportunity and social welfare he places the evolution of the federal role in schools within the context of broader institutional ideological and political changes that have swept the nation since the 1965 elementary and secondary education act chronicles the concerns raised by the 1983 report a nation at risk and shows how education became a major campaign issue for both parties in the 1990s mcguinn argues that the emergence of swing issues such as education can facilitate major policy change even as they influence the direction of wider political debates and partisan conflict mcguinn traces the republican shift from seeking to eliminate the u s department of education to embracing federal leadership in school reform then details the negotiations over nclb the forces that shaped its final provisions and the ways in which the law constitutes a new federal education policy regime against which states have now begun to rebel and that only by understanding the unique dynamics of national education politics will reformers be able to craft a more effective national role in school reform some of the assumptions on which earlier models and approaches in educational planning were predicated have turned out to be over simplistic limited or altogether not appropriate for the complex nature of the development process in many developed and especially underdeveloped societies recognizing these problems the international institute for educational planning iiep brought together a number of researchers policy makers and planners from all parts of the world for a week of reflection and discussion on the past present and future of educational planning this volume is a synthesis of the main results of this international forum and it attempts to delineate the tasks for educational planning in the coming years chapters contain the texts of five background papers with comments by iiep staff members the edited versions of the reports of the three working groups and a synthesis of the seminar discussions divided into five broad topics that reflect the convergence of discussion the last chapter reviews some of the observations made at the seminar on research and training needs in educational planning a paper schooling and future society by johan galtung is included as an appendix seminar participants are listed
