this study presents the first examination of the influence of ideas of honour on the causes conduct and ending of wars from ancient greece to the present day paul robinson begins with a theoretical examination of the concept of honour to clearly explain the many contradictions and tensions inherent within honour systems he then shows how honour has often contradictory and paradoxical effects on the conduct of war and illustrates this through seven case studies classical greece ancient rome mediaeval chivalry elizabethan england the american civil war the british empire and the western world after world war ii including the vietnam war and the current conflict in iraq key topics covered include honour and virtue honour and the causes of war honour as a motivation for fighting honours and rewards death and honour honour and the conduct of war honour and the enemy honour and the ending of wars women and honour this book reveals that the often contradictory behaviour of soldiers during war is a product of the contradictions inherent in the concept of honour this book will be of great interest to all students of military ethics military history politics international relations anthropology sociology philosophy and the history of ideas this book is a comparative study of military practice in sui tang china and the byzantine empire between approximately 600 and 700 ce it covers all aspects of the military art from weapons and battlefield tactics to logistics campaign organization military institutions and the grand strategy of empire whilst not neglecting the many differences between the chinese and byzantines this book highlights the striking similarities in their organizational structures tactical deployments and above all their extremely cautious approach to warfare it shows that contrary to the conventional wisdom positing a straightforward western way of war and an oriental approach characterized by evasion and trickery the specifics of byzantine military practice in the seventh century differed very little from what was known in tang china it argues that these similarities cannot be explained by diffusion or shared cultural influences which were limited but instead by the need to deal with common problems and confront common enemies in particular the nomadic peoples of the eurasian steppes overall this book provides compelling evidence that pragmatic needs may have more influence than deep cultural imperatives in determining a society's way of war this unique new work of reference traces the origins of the modern laws of warfare from the earliest times to the present day relying on written records from as far back as 2400 bce and using sources ranging from the bible to security council resolutions the author pieces together the history of a subject which is almost as old as civilisation itself the author shows that as long as humanity has been waging wars it has also been trying to find ways of legitimising different forms of combatants and ascribing rules to them protecting civilians who are either inadvertently or intentionally caught up between them and controlling the use of particular classes of weapons that may be used in times of conflict thus it is that this work is divided into three substantial parts volume 1 on the laws affecting combatants and captives volume 2 on civilians and volume 3 on the law of arms control this second book on civilians examines four different topics the first topic deals with the targetting of civilians in times of war this discussion is one which has been largely governed by the developments of technologies which have allowed projectiles to be discharged over ever greater areas and attempts to prevent their indiscriminate utilisation have struggled to keep pace the second topic concerns the destruction of the natural environment with particular regard to the utilisation of starvation as a method of warfare and unlike the first topic this one has rarely changed over thousands of years although contemporary practices are beginning to represent a clear break from tradition the third topic is concerned with the long standing problems of civilians under the occupation of opposing military forces where the practices of genocide collective punishments and or reprisals and rape have occurred the final topic in this volume is about the theft or destruction of the property of the enemy in terms of either pillage or the intentional devastation of the cultural property of the opposition as a work of reference this set of three books is unrivalled and will be of immense benefit to scholars and practitioners researching and advising on the laws of warfare it also tells a story which throws fascinating new light on the history of international law and on the history of warfare itself will the information age witness a transformation in the nature of war putting the notion to the test the author uses a range of contexts to assess whether the clausewitzian nature of war will retain its validity this book details the liberty ships and the emergency shipbuilding program during world war ii for the first time comprehensive information is provided about the builders the namesakes and the operators under one cover included is a list of all 2 710 liberty ships delivered by u s shipyards giving each ship s namesake and detailed descriptions of the companies that built the ships and the steamship companies that operated them during the war this book also details the formation of two shipyards in south portland maine the todd bath iron shipbuilding co and the south portland shipbuilding corp south portland s shady operations were investigated by the u s congress and resulted in the merger of both companies into the new england shipbuilding corporation in april 1943 also featured is the jeremiah o brien built by new england ship in 1943 and one of only two operational liberty ships left in the world its service history and crew information are given along with its postwar restoration and return to normandy in 1994

catton treats the diem government on its own terms rather than as an appendage of american policy focusing on the decade from dien bien phu to diem s assassination in 1963 he examines the vietnamese leader s nation building and reform efforts particularly his strategic hamlet program which sought to separate guerrilla insurgents from the peasantry and build grassroots support for his regime catton s evaluation of the collapse of that program offers fresh insights into both diem s limitations as a leader and the ideological and organizational weaknesses of his government while his assessment of the evolution of washington s relations with saigon provides new insight into america s growing involvement in the vietnamese civil war
