each of the novels is a special achievement different in its own fashion from any other novels written at the time or since the woman of andros is a greek pastoral as beautifully handled as the figures on a greek vase it contrasts with the bridge of san luis rey which is a fable perhaps more buddhist than christian in its feeling as much as with the cabala which is an album of boldly depicted characters all three novels different as they are from one another have something in common besides their economy of statement and their felicity of style

perhaps it is the quality that was praised by henry james in his little book on hawthorne there he said speaking of the scarlet letter it has about it that charm very hard to express which we find in an artist s work the first time he has touched his highest mark a sort of straightness and naturalness of execution and unconsciousness of his public and freshness of interest in his theme these books have that quality too and they ask to be reread from back cover
