a classic text for all those interested in jewish religious developments in eastern europe this paperback has a new introduction locating weiss s work in the context of contemporary scholarship and the current resurgence of hasidism ada rapoport albert has been a key partner in the profound transformation of the history of hasidism that has taken shape over the past few decades the essays in this volume show the erudition and creativity of her contribution written over a period of forty years they have been updated with regard to significant detail and to take account of important works of scholarship written after they were originally published this book contains an exhaustive survey of past and present qumran research outlining its particular development in various circumstances and national contexts for the first time perspectives and information not recorded in any other publication are highlighted in 1946 gillis gerleman proposed a single translator for lxx proverbs and lxx job after he launched this hypothesis scholars have either confirmed or debunked this hypothesis although attempts have been made to come up with an adequate answer to the question of a single translator for both proverbs and job scholars have thus far not reached consensus moreover the attempts that have been made are not at all elaborate thus the question remains unsolved this book tries to formulate an answer to the question of a single translator for both proverbs and job by examining the translation technique and theology of both books the translation technique of both books is analysed by examining the greek rendering of hebrew hapax legomena animal floral plant and herb names the theology is examined by looking at the pluses in the lxx version which contain θεός and κύριος the results of these studies are compared with one another in order to formulate an answer to a single translator by doing so this book not only formulates an answer to a single translator for both lxx proverbs and job but also characterises their translation technique and theology in greater detail person concludes that the deuteronomistic school's redactional activity continued into the postexilic period in part i he first critiques the commonly held conclusion that the deuteronomistic school ceased in the exile he then presents evidence that suggests that the deuteronomistic redactions of the deuteronomistic history and jeremiah continued into the postexilic period this evidence is of two types 1 deuteronomistic phraseology in the postexilic additions found in the mt and 2 the themes of return and restoration as vaticinia ex eventu in part ii the conclusion that the deuteronomistic school continued in the postexilic period is bolstered with additional evidence in the form of deuteronomistic phraseology in the redactional material of second zechariah adapting the methodology applied by j philip hyatt and others to jeremiah person argues that zechariah was redacted by the deuteronomistic school with the addition of the deuteronomistic prose in zechariah 9 14 in part iii person comments on the possible social setting of the deuteronomistic school in postexilic yehud as well as its theology in this setting
