we live in a self proclaimed urban age where we celebrate the city as the source of economic prosperity a nurturer of social and cultural diversity and a place primed for democracy we proclaim the city as the fertile ground from which progress will arise without cities we tell ourselves human civilization would falter and decay in cities in the urban age robert a beauregard argues that this line of thinking is not only hyperbolic it is too celebratory by half for beauregard the city is a cauldron for four haunting contradictions first cities are equally defined by both their wealth and their poverty second cities are simultaneously environmentally destructive and yet promise sustainability third cities encourage rule by political machines and oligarchies even as they are essentially democratic and at least nominally open to all and fourth city life promotes tolerance among disparate groups even as the friction among them often erupts into violence beauregard offers no simple solutions or proposed remedies for these contradictions indeed he doesn't necessarily hold that they need to be resolved since they are generative of city life without these four tensions cities wouldn't be cities rather beauregard argues that only by recognizing these ambiguities and contradictions can we even begin to understand our moral obligations as well as the clearest paths toward equality justice and peace in urban settings
