sentencing policies and practices in the 21st century focuses on the evolution and consequences of sentencing policies and practices with sentencing broadly defined to include plea bargaining judicial and juror decision making and alternatives to incarceration including participation in problem solving courts this collection of essays and reports of original research explores how sentencing policies and practices both in the united states and internationally have evolved explores important issues raised by guideline and non guideline sentencing and provides an overview of recent research on plea bargaining in the united states australia and the united kingdom other topics include the role of criminal history in sentencing the past and future of capital punishment strategies for reducing mass incarceration problem solving courts and restorative justice practices each chapter summarizes what is known identifies the gaps in the research and discusses the theoretical empirical and policy implications of the research findings the volume is grounded in current knowledge about the specific topics but also presents new material that reflects the thinking of the leading minds in the field and that outlines a research agenda for the future this is volume 4 of the american society of criminology s division on corrections and sentencing handbook series previous volumes focused on risk assessment disparities in punishment and the consequences of punishment decisions the handbooks provide a comprehensive overview of these topics for scholars students practitioners and policymakers community home and identity are concepts that have concerned scholars in a variety of fields for some time legal scholars sociologists anthropologists psychologists and economists among others have studied the impacts of home and community on one's identity and how one's identity is manifested in one's home and in one's community this volume brings together some of the leading thinkers about the connections between community home and identity several chapters address how the law and lawyers contribute or detract from the creation and maintenance of community and in some cases the conscious destruction of communities others examine the protection of individual and group identities through rules related to property title and use of such things as home and identity property this book makes the case for teaching and engaging with the trump presidency as us political history asking questions about how and when trump's presidency should be studied posits that history teachers must engage with this history now the author points to the events that the january 6th commission called a stain on our history and makes the argument that these events if ignored could stain the idea of history itself shrouding it in a mythical haze and relegating history teachers to merely marginalized storytellers as such it offers ideas on engaging students with the facts and sources of the trump presidency and placing trump in the larger context of american political history it specifically centers the notion of historical thinking as a guiding principle for the teaching of history and the study of the trump presidency in particular this book bridges the gap between the controversial events and rhetoric of donald trump's first administration and the importance of contextualizing his presidency in the history classroom it will appeal to educators scholars and researchers with interests in history education and teaching those interested in civic education and social studies as well as anyone interested in the future of teaching history and civics when it comes to really knowing a person is what you see really what you get is it ever all you get in this first critical study and annotated translation of the dramatic masterpiece four cries of a gibbon by the late ming dynasty chinese playwright xu wei author shiamin kwa considers the ways that people encounter and understand each other in extraordinary circumstances with its tales of crimes redressed in the next world and girls masquerading as men to achieve everlasting fame four cries of a gibbon complicated issues of self and identity when it appeared in the late ming dynasty paving the way for increasingly nuanced reflections on such questions in late ming and early qing fiction and drama beyond their historical context xu wei s influential plays serve as testimony to what kwa argues are universal strategies found within drama the heroes and heroines in these plays glide back and forth across the borders of life and death of male and female as they seek to articulate who they truly are as the actors sort out these truths onstage the members of the audience are invited to consider the truths that they live with offstage this book explores the often overlooked role of p 12 educators as scholars extending r a c e knowledge in educational leadership social justice and diversity it covers mentoring culturally responsive leadership practitioner scholarship and advocacy aiming to transform policy and practice for equitable education centered on the vibrancy of black culture this book offers an antiracist pedagogical framework for engaging black youth in educational and community settings resisting antiblackness in education refuses the logics of antiblackness that permeate societal and educational structures and instead offers an antiracist counter logic rooted in the aesthetics of black youth a historical and ongoing form of cultural expression and perception blending black studies with critical educational theory the author offers both a reflective and practical guide to help educators researchers community workers families and activists engage with black youth aesthetics through memoir aesthetic history cultural critique and case studies from a decade of research readers are introduced to a pedagogy born from the social psychic and material lives of black urban youth going beyond theory this book includes actions activities and reflection questions that can be implemented directly in k 12 classrooms and other educational contexts resisting antiblackness in education is a call to embrace an educational approach that is both intellectually stimulating and practically grounded a critical and creative catalyst in the fight for black youth and communities everywhere book features offers a tangible antiracist pedagogical framework for engaging with black youth in educational and community settings including content unit designs lesson plans projects school or community initiatives family activities and more blends research with personal narrative along with aesthetic artifacts of youth e g collages poetry paintings clay sculptures art public service announcements to contextualize the pedagogical theory connects to black aesthetic history to give readers an immersive experience so they are better prepared to execute the pedagogy including many prompts to engage in self reflection throughout the text focuses on youth voice to empower students and all those committed to uplifting students by recognizing their agency and cultural contributions and challenging traditional models of education that prioritize one directional knowledge dissemination provides a broad context of anti black oppression that highlights the united states but also discussing antiblackness globally inviting readers to engage with the text from their unique vantage points a rich collection of interdisciplinary essays this book explores the question what is to be found at the intersection of the sensorium and law s empire examining the problem of how legal rationalities try to grasp what can only be sensed through the body these essays problematize the cartesian framework that has long separated the mind from the body reason from feeling and the human from the animal in doing so they consider how the sensorium can operate variously as a tool of power or as a means of countering the exercise of regulatory force the senses it is argued operate as a vector for the implication of subjects in legal webs but also as a powerful site of resistance to legal definition and determination from the sensorium of animals to technologically mediated perception the ways in which the law senses and the ways in which senses are brought before the law invite a questioning of the categories of liberal humanism and as this volume demonstrates this questioning opens up the both interesting and important possibility of imagining other sensual subjectivities this is a comprehensive reference volume that will give the reader an insight into all the concepts theories issues and scholars that have shaped the field of pragmatics
