how does teaching christianity differ from other forms of teaching how might a christian teach a commonplace set of facts from a mandated secular curriculum in a biblical way this book considers what may be involved in a biblical approach to teaching as it emerges from a biblically grounded life and what this might look like in the classroom rather than speaking of integration of faith and learning it begins with a foundation of christ the truth and lord of all including all curriculum subjects and moves to the development of a framework for classroom practice that includes a need to try to see things from god s perspective all truly christian education is seen therefore as a profoundly biblical pursuit leading to the revelation of god in order to demonstrate this the book explores the underlying principles out of which our education should flow these principles then allow us to consider such areas as a christian way to teach any subject or even what might be distinctive about this work explores a perennial question that christians who are called to teach must consider so what makes our teaching christian it considers the essential and distinctive elements of christian teaching by examining the apostles teaching ministry in the book of acts and aspects of jesus s own teaching in the gospel of john it proposes how teaching in the name spirit and power of jesus relates to the teaching ministries of christians today for example an in depth look at jesus s teaching of both nicodemus and the samaritan woman known in christian tradition as photini provides insights for transformative teaching of both insiders and outsiders in a christian community this work is a theological pastoral and educational exploration of christian teaching that has implications for both laity and clergy in their ministries this book offers an energizing christian vision for the art of teaching the authors experienced teachers themselves encourage teacher readers to reanimate their work by imagining it differently david smith and susan felch along with barbara carvill kurt schaefer timothy steele and john witvliet creatively use three metaphors journeys and pilgrimages gardens and wilderness buildings and walls to illuminate a fresh vision of teaching and learning stretching beyond familiar clichés they infuse these metaphors with rich biblical echoes and theological resonances that will inform and inspire christian teachers everywhere christian teachers have long been thinking about what content to teach but little scholarship has been devoted to how faith forms the actual process of teaching is there a way to go beyond christian perspectives on the subject matter and think about the teaching itself as christian in this book david i smith shows how faith can and should play a critical role in shaping pedagogy and the learning experience a comprehensive resource on the distinctiveness of true christian teaching my particular hope is that this introductory book for there are a number of more detailed text book type publications on this topic will be useful to help those who want to teach more biblically this book is an invitation to the start of a journey the journey involves recognising more clearly the nature of the world around us and how we can test god s will for us as teachers where ever it is that we teach the book focusses on the concept of character biblical character is defined by god offering his grace when we did not and do not deserve it we are therefore called to serve others by recognising this grace in the teaching gift he gives to us 1 peter 4 10 11 such discerning wisdom is the key to staying faithful to this call so our teaching is not reduced to an instructional formula or a controlling social engineering program the purpose of teaching as a christian is to be an agent of grace and truth who invites others to grow up into christ this is the basis of true character for the christian teacher discover how ordinary moments in the school year can become occasions for making profound connections between faith and pedagogy in this encouraging and practical book education expert david i smith invites christian educators on a journey through the school year that will deepen their capacity to make thoughtful connections between their faith and their pedagogy mirroring the rhythms of an academic year the book embraces and explores the mundane moments that all teachers experience every semester starting the course setting some norms for interaction choosing how to frame the material assigning tasks repeating things pausing bringing things to a close the topics are deliberately ordinary because as smith demonstrates the shape of one s teaching is mainly built from the unspectacular choices and actions that gradually shape the texture of life in the classroom if educators want to think well about christian faith and teaching and act well in the classroom they need to learn to reflect well on those ordinary steps in the journey everyday christian teaching builds on smith s previous book on christian teaching practicing faith in the classroom where he made a persuasive case for connecting faith and pedagogy the new book aims to put this idea into practice as smith explains in the introduction suppose we want to get better at thinking about faith and teaching together what then what does the road look like and how do we walk it wisely if we d like to be a pilgrim how do we make progress taking up such questions with wisdom and empathy everyday christian teaching helps educators develop faith informed insights and life giving practices that can transform their teaching over the course of time
