the warships of the world war ii era german navy are among the most popular subject in naval history with an almost uncountable number of books devoted to them however for a concise but authoritative summary of the design history and careers of the major surface ships it is difficult to beat a series of six volumes written by gerhard koop and illustrated by klaus peter schmolke each contains an account of the development of a particular class a detailed description of the ships with full technical details and an outline of their service heavily illustrated with plans battle maps and a substantial collection of photographs these have been out of print for ten years or more and are now much sought after by enthusiasts and collectors so this new modestly priced reprint of the series will be widely welcomed scharnhorst and gneisenau the subject of this volume were the product of a long involved and politically determined design process that saw them develop from an improved pocket battleship to what many described as a battlecruiser although they were really fast battleships they were the most active and successful of the kriegesmarine s major warships taking part in numerous famous operations including the infamous channel dash a beautifully illustrated study of the dramatic british german clash in the north sea that resulted in the sinking of the german battleship scharnhorst the german battleship scharnhorst had a reputation for being a lucky ship early in the war she fought off a british battlecruiser and sunk a carrier before carrying out two successful forays into the atlantic in the spring of 1943 the scharnhorst was redeployed to norway there working in concert with other german warships such as the battleship tirpitz she posed a major threat to the arctic convoys the allied sea lifeline to russia her presence alongside tirpitz forced the british to tie down ships in arctic waters when tirpitz was put out of action and hitler demanded naval support for the war in russia the crew of the scharnhorst under rear admiral bey had to act in late december 1943 she put to sea her target an allied convoy passing through the barents sea on its way to murmansk unknown to bey the british were using the convoy as bait to draw the scharnhorst into battle what followed was a two day running battle fought in rough seas and near perpetual darkness ending with the destruction of the scharnhorst and all but 36 of her crew ending any serious german naval threat to the arctic convoy lifeline leading naval historian angus konstam offers a fascinating new insight into this key engagement he combines expert analysis with his unique knack for storytelling to offer a fascinating new perspective on the battle which sank the scharnhorst
