we are living in the age of participation social media are exploding customer cooperation is sought in product development and customer content is even built into media but where is the art reflecting our times where are the artists making this kind of art who were their predecessors in this book the author traces the roots of participatory art from duchamp mondrian and moholy nagy via less well known artists like lygia clark and charlotte posenenske as well as via better known artists like joseph beuys and yvind fahlstrm to contemporary artists showing an interest in participation like olafur eliasson and antony gormley participation is the most important thing that has happened in art gormley said in 2009 what then is participatory art after around 40 years of practice the author tries to distill the essential principles in 10 suggestions for a manifesto most central is its focus on the unfolding creative moment itself and on the creativity of the spectator throughout the nineteenth century academies functioned as the main venues for the teaching promotion and display of art contemporary scholars have for the most part denigrated academic art calling it formulaic unoriginal and repetitious the contributors to art and the academy in the nineteenth century challenge this entrenched notion and consider how academies worldwide have represented an important system of artistic preservation and transmission their essays eschew easy binaries that have reigned in academia for more than half a century and that simply oppose the avant garde to academicism thinking about art explores some of the greatest works of art and architecture in the world through the prism of themes instead of chronology to offer intriguing juxtapositions of art and history the book ranges across time and topics from the parthenon to the present day and from patronage to ethnicity to reveal art history in new and varied lights with over 200 colour illustrations and a wealth of formal and contextual analysis thinking about art is a companion guide for art lovers students and the general reader and is also the first a level art history textbook written by a skilled and experienced teacher of art history penny huntsman the book is accompanied by a companion website at wiley.com/go/thinkingaboutart this is an analytical survey of the thought about painting and sculpture as it unfolded from the early eighteenth to the mid nineteenth centuries this was the period during which theories of the visual arts particularly of painting and sculpture underwent a radical transformation as a result of which the intellectual foundations of our modern views on the arts were formed because this transformation can only be understood when seen in a broad context of cultural aesthetic and philosophical developments of the period moshe barasch surveys the opinions of the artists and also treats in some detail the doctrines of philosophers poets and critics barasch thus traces for the reader the entire development of modernism in art and art theory from the glories of the high renaissance in italy to the emotional visions of the romantics and from the groundbreaking techniques of the impressionists to the radical canvases of the abstract expressionists this book provides a fascinating look at the major movements in the history of western painting a clear chronological structure allows the reader to see each movement in its historical context and to appreciate the patterns which emerge the historical framework shows the extent to which the powers of royalty religion and revolution have exerted their influence in the artistic sphere from the sacred beauty of botticelli s birth of venus to the revolutionary realism of david s death of marat this book reveals the very best of the visual adventure that is western painting great artists change the way we look at the world and this book is a beautifully illustrated summary of painting s greatest works more than 160 beautiful reproductions few mortals have made a discipline of art and of life or devoted themselves to learning with the singleness of purpose of michelangelo even in the magnificent turmoil of the italian renaissance when boticelli and leonardo and cellini electrified the civilized world with their creative genius one man towers over them all michelangelo the master artist out of michelangelo s reading associations and the everyday ordeal of art there emerged a complete theory of art at once personal and representative of his times this volume traces the development of that theory by drawing upon his letters poetry conversations renaissance biographies and his works of art themselves professor clements offers a unified view of the artist s thoughts opinions and seeming contradictions on all the arts he practiced so vigorously and brilliantly michelangelo s artistic biases his personality and his temperament are brought into sharp focus the result is a complete and revealing image of a man hailed by his age as divine jacket flap
