vietnam and beyond is a comprehensive in depth study of one of the most thought provoking writers of the vietnam war generation tim o brien through its thematic rather than chronological approach this volume sets itself apart from previous readings of o brien s development as a trauma artist and an outspoken chronicler of american involvement in vietnam stefania ciocia highlights o brien s compelling preoccupation with the role and the ethical responsibility of the storyteller with his clear privileging of story truth over happening truth in order to make a bold statement about the power of fiction and narrative patrick brantlinger here examines the commonly held nineteenth century view that all primitive or savage races around the world were doomed sooner or later to extinction warlike propensities and presumed cannibalism were regarded as simultaneously noble and suicidal accelerants of the downfall of other races after contact with white civilization brantlinger finds at the heart of this belief the stereotype of the self exterminating savage or the view that savagery is a sufficient explanation for the ultimate disappearance of savages from the grand theater of world history humanitarians according to brantlinger saw the problem in the same terms of inevitability or doom as did scientists such as charles darwin and thomas henry huxley as well as propagandists for empire such as charles wentworth dilke and james anthony froude brantlinger analyzes the irish famine in the context of ideas and theories about primitive races in north america australia new zealand and elsewhere he shows that by the end of the nineteenth century especially through the influence of the eugenics movement extinction discourse was ironically applied to the great white race in various apocalyptic formulations with the rise of fascism and nazism and with the gradual renewal of aboriginal populations in some parts of the world by the 1930s the stereotypic idea of fatal impact began to unravel as did also various more general forms of race based thinking and of social darwinism

the first of cooper s five leatherstocking tales and the one that incorporates most fully his own experience of childhood on the early american frontier
