south africa is awash with policy failures and policy confusion we argue firstly that our current discord over policy details has its origin in the celebrated negotiated transition we hold that the vote count of an 85 majority in the constituent assembly in 1996 obscured the reality that the constitution meant different things to different negotiators the result was that south africa from the very start of the democratic era lacked a national consensus on how to go about consolidating democracy we keep on failing to build a proper roof over our democracy because the constitutional foundations are weak

a spirited defense of the enlightenment against assaults from both the left and the right that explains its urgent implications for our contemporary politics ours is an age when optimism about politics is hard to come by ian shapiro explains why this is so and without minimizing the daunting challenges spells out an appropriate response written in the indomitable spirit exemplified by tom paine uncommon sense is a rich source of insight and inspiration in dark political times the enlightenment commitments to reason and science are under assault from the postmodern left and the authoritarian right shapiro explains why the attacks are misguided and politically destructive he agrees with the critics that there are no universal principles of justice that transcend political battles and no fair impartial rules to govern the distribution of income wealth rights or opportunities but abandoning the search for them as futile does not mean junking the enlightenment s core political goal to deploy the tools of reason and science to fight domination democracy is essential to vindicating that goal yet citizens in many democracies are profoundly alienated and many democracies are in danger of failing shapiro explains what has gone wrong debunks ill considered remedies and spells out better ones deepening and extending his previous writing on political theory and democratic politics
