ties between southeast asia and the middle east have been extremely important for well over seven hundred years but historical linkages between the two regions have attracted little attention and assessments of their significance are curiously lacking southeast asia and the middle east addresses this omission by exploring political economic familial educational and religious bonds connecting these areas both historically and in the contemporary world islam in southeast asia is conventionally understood as a synthesis of middle eastern and local ideas while accepting that such a distinction exists this volume shows how ongoing interactions have helped determine the character of both regions and southeast asia in particular the pervasiveness of these influences makes it clear that they will continue to shape political and economic relations migration patterns the dissemination of knowledge and radials of islamic militancy for a long time to come such relationships contribute to regional and global events in many crucial ways making the present volume timely and important not only for scholars but also for anyone interested in the future of asia and the middle east abu sa id abd al hayy gardizi was a persian author and historian living in the mid eleventh century at the height of the turkish ghazvanid dynasty his only known work the ornament of histories zayn al akhbar is a hugely ambitious history of the eastern islamic lands 650 1041 ad spanning what is now eastern iran afghanistan and parts of the central asian republics and indo pakistan subcontinent gardizi s text is an extremely rare source of primary information about the rise of islamic faith culture and military dominance in these regions and represents a significant contribution to our understanding of the early islamic world covering the four centuries from the first arab conquests to his own time gardizi s work is a prime source for some episodes the sole one for the history of these lands at this time thus it is the sole source for events at the end of sultan mas ud s reign when the sultan was killed in an army coup having just lost the whole of the empire s persian provinces to the incoming seljuq turks and it was the seljuqs who were now to dominate the central and eastern islamic lands for a century and a half almost till the invasion of the mongols writing on the far eastern fringes of what was then the eastern islamic world in what is now afghanistan gardizi also included important ethnological information on the turkish tribes of inner eurasia and on the religions and philosophies of the indians but his prime interest was clearly the islamic history of his own lands the eastern iranian world and its central asian and indian fringes and here he provides a detailed narrative this book provides the first translation into a western language of this history of the formative period of the eastern islamic world and gives an explanatory commentary detailing the historical geographical and cultural context and well as the events and colourful characters mentioned in it

following the tradition and style of the acclaimed index islamicus the editors have created this new bibliography of art and architecture in the islamic world the editors have surveyed and annotated a wide range of books and articles from collected volumes and journals published in all european languages except turkish between 1906 and 2011 this comprehensive bibliography is an indispensable tool for everyone involved in the study of material culture in muslim societies orientalism has traditionally dominated discourse on the middle east and thus obscured the human realities of the region this monograph addresses the inadequacy and validity of existing theoretical perspectives on the middle east the critique presented offers islam as a unifying constant rather than a sporadic phenomenon correlated to the flux of social political and economic conditions and argues that islam should be conceptually incorporated into any analysis of the region the book defines the essence of islamic civilization and highlights aspects of the colonial encounter as a background for understanding contemporary dynamics against a subtle leitmotiv of contrasting imagery it profiles the islamic view of the state the role of the faith as well as that of the community useful distinctions are made between the islamic and western approaches to the area which should prove illuminating to both the area specialist and the lay reader the west's actions in the middle east are based on a fundamental misunderstanding political islam is repeatedly assumed to be the main cause of conflict and unrest in the region the idea that we can decipher jihadist radicalization or problems in the middle east simply by reading the qur'an has now become symptomatic of our age this dangerous over simplification and the west's obsession with islam dominates media and policy analysis ultimately skewing intervention and preventing long term solutions and stability in the region [2] mer taspinar who has 20 years research and policymaking experience explains here what is really going on in the middle east the book is based on three of the most pressing cases currently under the spotlight the role of erdogan and the unrest in turkey the sectarian clashes in iraq syria yemen and lebanon and the existence of the so called islamic state islam is often seen as the root cause of the challenge associated with these cases but by unpacking the real issues such as entrenched authoritarianism vast energy resources excessive defense spending and the youth bulge the book demystifies what is happening and cites governance and nationalism as the main drivers of conflict the book shows the importance of treating the causes which are economic social and institutional rather than the symptom the continued and growing success of islamist parties and jihadist movements in assessing the middle east in revealing exactly how islamism is activated and by analyzing the structural challenges of the region this unique insider's account provides a map to understanding middle eastern wars and conflicts and the prospects for the future opposing a binary perspective that consolidates ethnicity religion and nationalism into separate spheres this book demonstrates that neither nationalism nor religion can be studied in isolation in the middle east religious interpretation like other systems of meaning production is affected by its historical and political contexts and the processes of interpretation and religious translation bleed into the institutional discourses and processes of nation building this book calls into question the foundational epistemologies of the nation state by centering on the pivotal and intimate role islam played in the emergence of the nation state showing the entanglements and reciprocities of nationalism and religious thought as they played out in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century middle east the encyclopaedia fills a gap in both the history of science and in cultural studies reference works on other cultures tend either to omit science completely or pay little attention to it and those on the history of science almost always start with the greeks with perhaps a mention of the islamic world as a trans lator of greek scientific works the purpose of the encyclopaedia is to bring together knowledge of many disparate fields in one place and to legitimize the study of other cultures science our aim is not to claim the superiority of other cultures but to engage in a mutual exchange of ideas the western academic divisions of science technology and medicine have been united in the encyclopaedia because in ancient cultures these disciplines were connected this work contributes to redressing the balance in the number of reference works devoted to the study of western science and encourages awareness of cultural diversity the encyclopaedia is the first compilation of this sort and it is testimony both to the earlier eurocentric view of academia as well as to the widened vision of today there is nothing that crosses disciplinary and geographic boundaries dealing with both scientific and philosophical issues to the extent that this work does xi personal note from the editor many years ago i taught african history at a secondary school in central africa
