consider the following over 1 7 million americans live in prison a three hundred percent increase since 1980 in some us cities one third of all young black men are in jail on probation or awaiting trial in california spending on prisons has eclipsed allocations for higher education starbucks jansport and microsoft all use prison labor to package their products corrections corporations of america the nation s largest private jailer has been dubbed a theme stock for the 90s why is criminal justice so central to american politics lockdown america not only documents the horrors and absurdities of militarized policing prisons a fortified border and the federalization of the war on crime it also explains the political and economic history behind the massive crackdown written in accessible and vivid prose lockdown america will propel readers toward a deeper understanding of the links between crime and politics in a period of gathering economic crisis in america someone is sexually assaulted every two and a half minutes now more than ever a comprehensive reevaluation of sexual violence is urgently necessary award winning author and historian joanna bourke delivers this timely investigation of rape a crime that is increasingly difficult to define yet devastating in its impact she draws from the work of criminologists sociologists and psychologists to examine the motivations driving perpetrators of sex crimes insisting that rapists are not born they become the rapist not the victim is the target of bourke s unflinching analysis for the perpetrator himself she asserts can only be reformed once he is humanized though indebted to a growing body of feminist analyses she radically departs from this vein of literature in order to place the rapist in his or her political cultural context the book begins by exploring the causes and varieties of forced homosexual behaviour in american correctional institutions it also describes other forms of violence among prisoners and relates incidents from the author s experience as administrator of a therapeutic community for violent drug abusers prisoner violence among females and juveniles is also discussed research that compares violence in institutions for women and adolescents with violence in prisons for men is covered the concept of victimization is broken down into the components of psychological victimization in which the aggressor manipulates other prisoners while avoiding fights economic victimization including loan sharking gambling fraud pricing violations thefts and robbery and social victimization which occurs because the prisoner is a member of an identifiable social group the victimization of prisoners by staff members and the various dangers currently faced by prison staff members are also explored other chapters consider the causes responsibilities and solutions associated with prison victimization while proposing some easily implemented and less expensive solutions some feasible but more expensive solutions are also discussed three radical solutions proposed are based on the concept of open correctional colonies notes are provided for each chapter an appendix examines how social scientists obtain information on prison life and prison victimization source ncjrs included are reports of the state prisons at quentin and at folsom respectively

this handbook covers the special needs of eight groups of prisoners which have a particularly vulnerable status in prisons they are prisoners with mental health care needs prisoners with disabilities ethnic and racial minorities and indigenous peoples foreign national prisoners lesbian gay bisexual and transgender lgbt prisoners older prisoners prisoners with terminal illness and prisoners under sentence of death all information guidelines and recommendations provided for these groups apply to adult male and female members of these categories of prisoners the handbook is designed to be used by all actors involved in the criminal justice system including policymakers legislators prison managers prison staff members of non governmental organizations and other individuals interested or active in the field of criminal justice and prison reform
