this is an unusual book in that it is the record of a company a company of the 7th royal dublin fusiliers rdf d company at gallipoli the battalion was raised in august 1914 and allocated to 30th brigade 10th irish division at the request of a mr browning president of the irish rugby football union the co of the new battalion agreed to keep open a special company d company as it was subsequently known for pals from the irish rugby union volunteers it was a remarkable mix of volunteers barristers doctors solicitors stockbrokers bankers civil servants and the like nearly all well known in dublin s public and social life training in ireland went on until on the last day of april 1915 7th rdf sailed for holyhead and from there travelled to basingstoke the concentration area of the 10th division the final period training at divisional level lasted to the end of june and a week later they were off to the dardanelles they landed at suvla bay on the morning of 7th august and there follows a comprehensive account of the fighting over the next few weeks especially as it affected d company the first major battle was the attack on chocolate hill and then there was protracted fighting on kizlar dagh ridge much of the description of the action is taken from letters and from personal memories of those who were there the story ends soon after midnight 29th 30th september 1915 when the battalion was taken off the peninsula and brought to lemnos there is a final chapter on the work of the chaplains with the wounded in an appendix there is a list of men of the battalion mentioned in despatches and the complete roll of the company showing five officers and 281 men and a further 23 transferred to b company for the machine gun section there is also a list of the 79 ncos and men who survived to leave suvla on 29th september finally there is a remarkable photographic section at the end depicting some 250 officers and men with brief biographical details and similar details for another 58 for whom there are no photos this is certainly a very rare book landgangen ved suvla bay i 1915 var en del af augustoffensiven i den 1 verdenskrig og var det sidste forsøg på at bryde den fastlåste situation ved gallipoli på trods af let modstand ved landgangen mislykkedes gennembruddet på grund af inkompetence hos den ledende general løjtnant sir frederick stopford sidste del af bogen har personalia med billede og lille tekst om officerer og andre englændere der deltog i den militære operation this book is the first to deal with physical culture in an irish context covering educational martial and recreational histories deemed by many to be a precursor to the modern interest in health and gym cultures physical culture was a late nineteenth and early twentieth century interest in personal health which spanned national and transnational histories it encompassed gymnasiums homes classrooms depots and military barracks prior to this work physical culture s emergence in ireland has not received thorough academic attention addressing issues of gender childhood nationalism and commerce this book is unique within an irish context in studying an irish manifestation of a global phenomenon tracing four decades of irish history the work also examines the influence of foreign fitness entrepreneurs in ireland and contrasts them with their irish counterparts this pioneering study first published in 1995 retains its rank as one of the most powerful histories ever written about irish involvement in world war 1 this year the centenary of the war sees its timely re publication as the irishmen who fought in that war re enter the national memory after decades of indifference and hostility the gradual softening of attitudes over the last twenty years amid great historic change on the island of ireland is due in no small part to the efforts of historians such as myles dungan to tell thousands of forgotten stories drawing on the diaries letters literary works and oral accounts of soldiers myles dungan tells some of the personal stories of what irishmen unionist and nationalist went through during the great war and how many of them drew closer together during that horror than at any time since this volume deals with a selection of the most important battles and campaigns in which the three irish divisions participated this compelling text explores the international professional local and personal historiography of the campaign drawing on a complete set of the advanced nationalist press and uncataloged collections of ephemera in the uk ireland and the us novick history university of michigan and oakland university explores links between wwi and irish propagandistic writing looking in particular at the use of humor a
