The Codex is considered a sacred text, passed down through generations of Shadowhunters. It is both a legal document outlining their laws and a mystical tome imbued with protective enchantments. Its divine origin lends it a sense of authority and reverence that influences Shadowhunter society profoundly.

in the mid 3rd century bc king ptolemy ii philadelphus of egypt ordered a translation of the ancient hebrew scriptures for the library of alexandria the creation of the septuagint resulted from this order it is generally accepted that there were several versions of the ancient hebrew and samaritan scriptures before the translation of the septuagint the two books of the paralipomena were translated into greek and added to the septuagint around 180 bc after a large number of refugees fled from the war in judea and settled in egypt the two books of the paralipomena were one book in the masoretic texts the book of divrei hayyamim subsequent latin translations were renamed 1st and 2nd chronikon by jerome in the 5th century ad subsequent english translations of the old testament labeled these books as 1st and 2nd chronicles the term paralipomena which means things left out is similar to the hebrew name divrei hayyamim which means things in the days the books are a collection of texts from various eras of israelite history spanning the era of the old israelite kingdoms circa 1000 bc through the persian conquest of circa 539 bc scholars have debated the origin of the books throughout their history and there is no consensus within rabbinical literature christian literature or modern scholarship the general rabbinical view is that the two books of paralipomena were written by one author as divrei hayyamim and then translated into greek the dominant early christian view was that the books were written by ezra the scribe circa 350 bc however this view was generally abandoned in western europe during the protestant reformation modern scholarly analysis has no consensus however the books do themselves indicate the eras they were compiled nevertheless the authors remain unknown based on the references within 1st Paralipomenon the book was compiled sometime after 732 bc when Tiglath Pileser III deported the Reubenites, Gadites and the people of Manasseh to other regions of the Assyrian Empire the surviving Hebrew text of Divrei Hayyamim does however contain a reference to the temple in Jerusalem as the temple of the gods which means the original text of the book has to predate King Josiah's reforms of circa 625 bc and likely predates King Hezekiah's similar reforms decades earlier both Hezekiah and Josiah are recorded as removing the idols of the gods from the temple which had by all accounts been in the temple since it was built by King Solomon the books of Paralipomena differ slightly from the later Masoretic book of Divrei Hayyamim although the three are generally similar in 200 bc the Greek Kingdom of Syria under the Seleucid Dynasty took Judea from Egypt and began an effort to Hellenize the Judeans which included erecting a statue of Zeus in the Second Temple in Jerusalem and effectively banning traditional Judaism this Hellenizing activity was partially successful creating the Sadducee faction of Judaism however it also led the Maccabean Revolt in 165 bc which itself created the independent Kingdom of Judea this kingdom had a tenuous alliance with the Roman Republic until General Pompey conquered Syria into the Roman Republic in 69 bc Pompey's goal was to liberate Greek speaking communities in the Middle East that had fallen under the rule of non-Greeks when the Seleucids' Syrian Empire had collapsed and he carved up Judea and Edom to the east placing Greek speaking cities under the protection of the Roman Province of Syria he also liberated several smaller communities that had been occupied by Judea granting them self government including Ashdod, Yavne, Jaffa, Dora, Marissa and Samaria

The Old Greek translation was the version originally in the Septuagint however the authenticity and accuracy of any and all versions of the Book of Daniel have always been in doubt the Codex Chisianus also known as the Chigi Manuscript 88 is accepted as being the closest to the Old Greek translation it claims to be a copy of the Christian scholar Origen of Alexandria's recension from circa 240 ad and as the Syriac translation of Origen's recension from 616 and 617 ad the Syro Hexaplar Codex is virtually identical they are both accepted as Origen's work Origen rejected both the shorter version of Daniel found in the Hebrew and Aramaic translation that the Jews of his day were using as well as Theodotion's translation which was largely based on the Hebrew and Aramaic text and claimed the Old Greek translation was the closest to the original text of Daniel in 1931 a damaged papyrus from the 3rd century ad was found now known as Papyrus 967 which contains a Greek translation of Daniel that is similar to the Codex Chisianus and syro hexaplar codex s version of daniel but does not seem to be origen s work supporting his recension as being the old greek version while the content of the codex chisianus syro hexaplar codex and papyrus 967 are essentially the same papyrus 967 deviates from the others by having daniel s visions found in chapters 7 and 8 earlier in the book before masoretic chapter 5 likely moved due to confusion over the identities of the two kings named belshazzar this translation follows the oldest documented chapter structure of daniel starting with the chapter of susanna and incorporating the old greek versions of masoretic chapters 7 and 8 earlier in the book as found in papyrus 967 overall daniel may be one of the most abused of the ancient authors as several authors appear to have added to or redacted his work during the persian era the surviving copies of daniel are such a mess that they are generally dismissed as a work of fiction by most secular historians that research them as they do not correspond to any version of babylonian median and persian history although being set in the neo babylonian and early persian eras ironically the early sections of the book of daniel could only have been written in the neo babylonian and early persian eras as the redactions that took place to the earlier sections of text only make sense in the political reality of the early persian empire
