thrilling a bracing summary of what we have learned from archaeogenetics the study of ancient dna krause and trappe capture the excitement of this young field kyle harper the wall street journal johannes krause is the director of the max planck institute for evolutionary anthropology and a brilliant pioneer in the field of archaeogenetics archaeology augmented by dna sequencing technology which has allowed scientists to reconstruct human history reaching back hundreds of thousands of years before recorded time in this surprising account krause and journalist thomas trappe rewrite a fascinating chapter of this history the peopling of europe that takes us from the neanderthals and denisovans to the present we know now that a wave of farmers from anatolia migrated into europe 8 000 years ago essentially displacing the dark skinned blue eyed hunter gatherers who preceded them this anatolian farmer dna is one of the core genetic components of people with contemporary european ancestry archaeogenetics has also revealed that indigenous north and south americans though long thought to have been east asian also share dna with contemporary europeans krause and trappe vividly introduce us to the prehistoric cultures of the ancient europeans the aurignacians innovative artisans who carved flutes and animal and human forms from bird bones more than 40 000 years ago the varna who buried their loved ones with gold long before the pharaohs of egypt and the gravettians big game hunters who were europe s most successful early settlers until they perished in the ice age genetics has earned a reputation for smuggling racist ideologies into science but cutting edge science makes nonsense of eugenics and pure bloodlines immigration and genetic exchanges have always defined our species who we are is a question of culture not biological inheritance this revelatory book offers us an entirely new way to understand ourselves both past and present a fascinating exploration of human history over the last ten thousand years
