from an award winning historian of black radical politics comes the definitive biography of audley moore mother of modern black nationalism and trailblazer in the fight for reparations queen mother is a monumental achievement a rendering worthy of the great audley moore herself jelani cobb dean of the columbia school of journalism in the world of black radical politics the name audley moore commands unquestioned respect across the nine decades of her life queen mother moore distinguished herself as a leading progenitor of black nationalism the founder of the modern reparations movement and from her philadelphia and harlem homes a mentor to some of america s most influential black activists and yet she is far less remembered than many of her peers and protégés marcus garvey malcolm x and muhammad ahmad to name just a few and the ephemera of her life are either lost or plundered in queen mother celebrated writer and historian ashley d farmer restores moore s faded portrait delivering the first ever definitive account of her life and enduring legacy deeply researched and richly detailed queen mother is more than just the biography of an american icon it s a narrative history of 20th century black radicalism told through the lens of the woman whose grit and determination sustained the movement vietnam and the colonial condition of french literature explores an aspect of modern french literature that has been consistently overlooked in literary histories the relationship between the colonies their cultures languages and people and formal shifts in french literary production starting from the premise that neither cultural identity nor cultural production can be pure or homogenous leslie barnes initiates a new discourse on the french literary canon by examining the work of three iconic french writers with personal connections to vietnam andré malraux marguerite duras and linda lê in a thorough investigation of the authors linguistic metaphysical and textual experiences of colonialism barnes articulates a new way of reading french literature not as an inward looking homogenous monolingual tradition but rather as a tradition of intersecting and interdependent peoples cultures and experiences one of the few books to focus on vietnam s position within francophone literary scholarship barnes challenges traditional concepts of french cultural identity and offers a new perspective on canonicity and the division between french and francophone literature for a brief time following the end of the u s civil war american political leaders had an opportunity slim to be sure but not beyond the realm of possibility to remake society so that black americans and other persons of color could enjoy equal opportunity in civil and political life it was not to be with each passing year after the war and especially after reconstruction ended during the 1870s american society witnessed the evolution of a new white republic as national leaders abandoned the promise of reconstruction and justified their racial biases based on political economic social and religious values that supplanted the old north south slavery abolitionist schism of the antebellum era a long dark night provides a sweeping history of this too often overlooked period of african american history that followed the collapse of reconstruction from the beginnings of legal segregation through the end of world war ii michael j martinez argues that the 1880s ushered in the dark night of the american negro a night so dark and so long that the better part of a century would elapse before sunlight broke through combining both a top down perspective on crucial political issues and public policy decisions as well as a bottom up discussion of the lives of black and white americans between the 1880s and the 1940s a long dark night will be of interest to all readers seeking to better understand this crucial era that continues to resonate throughout american life today
