the age of new waves examines the origins of the concept of the new wave in 1950s france and the proliferation of new waves in world cinema over the past three decades the book suggests that youth cities and the construction of a global market have been the catalysts for the cinematic new waves of the past half century it begins by describing the enthusiastic engagement between french nouvelle vague filmmakers and a globalizing american cinema and culture during the modernization of france after world war ii it then charts the growing and ultimately explosive disenchantment with the aftermath of that massive social economic and spatial transformation in the late 1960s subsequent chapters focus on films and visual culture from taiwan and contemporary mainland china during the 1980s and 1990s and they link the recent propagation of new waves on the international film festival circuit to the economic miracles and consumer revolutions accompanying the process of globalization while it travels from france to east asia the book follows the transnational movement of a particular model of cinema organized around mise en scène or the interaction of bodies objects and spaces within the frame rather than montage or narrative the master shot style of directors like hou hsiao hsien tsai ming liang and jia zhangke has reinvented a crucial but overlooked tendency in new wave film and this cinema of mise en scène has become a key aesthetic strategy for representing the changing relationships between people and the material world during the rise of a global market the final chapter considers the interaction between two of the most global phenomena in recent film history the transnational art cinema and hollywood and it searches for traces of an american new wave modern romanian filmmaking has received wide international recognition from 2001 to 2011 promising young filmmakers have been embraced as important members of european cinema the country developed a new fervor for filmmaking and a dozen new movies have received international awards and recognition from some of the most important critics worldwide this development sometimes called new wave cinema is fully explored in this book by using a comparative approach and searching for similarities among cinematic styles and trends the study reveals that the young romanian directors are part of a larger european way of filmmaking the discussion moves from specific themes motifs and narratives to the philosophy of a whole generation such as cristi puiu cristian mungiu radu muntean corneliu porumboiu tudor giurgiu and others since the mid 1990s the emergence of a hydrogen economy and the speed with which it will arrive have been vigorously debated as a disruptive technology dominant designs for the production storage and distribution of hydrogen have not yet been established neither have performance characteristics been achieved to compete with the existing combustion engine though the efficiency and durability of hydrogen fuel cells are improving this publication highlights the uncertainties involved in making choices about hydrogen and fuel cells in planning the development policies on national energy environment and transport sector publisher s description the term new wave conjures up images of paris in the early 1960s jean seberg and jean paul belmondo the young jean pierre leaud the three protagonists of jules and jim capering across a bridge all from the films of french filmmakers jean luc godard and françois truffaut the impact of the french new wave continues to be felt and its ethos of shooting in real places with non professional actors and small crews would influence filmmakers as diverse as john cassavetes and martin scorsese to lars von trier s dogme 95 movement all of whom sought to challenge the dominance of traditional hollywood methods of both filmmaking and storytelling but the french were not the only new wave and they were not even the first in new waves in cinema sean martin explores the history of the many new waves that have appeared since the birth of cinema including their great forebears the german expressionists the soviet formalists and the italian neorealists in addition martin looks at the movements traditionally seen as the french new wave s contemporaries and heirs such as the czech new wave the british new wave the new german cinema the hollywood movie brats and brazilian cinema novo the book also covers other new waves such as those of greece hungary documentary cinema vérité and direct cinema animation avant garde and the so called no wave filmmakers new waves in cinema also explores the differences and similarities between the concept of a new wave and a national cinema citing among others the example of the new iranian cinema which has given us directors as important as abbas kiarostami and the makhmalbaf family examines resurgent trends in the national cinemas of mexico japan american independent cinema and concludes with an examination of the most celebrated movement of the 1990s and 2000s dogme 95 new waves in cinema makes a convincing case for the necessity for the continued existence of new waves and national cinemas in the face of hollywood and american cultural imperialism abbott offers a fruitful new way to read science fiction one that also greatly enriches our understanding of western history and its impact on our collective imagination detailing the overlap of science fiction and western fiction especially relating to their mutual interest in and concerns about frontier expansionism he reveals an unsuspected common ground that informs the writings of both camps reviewing the work of many hugo and nebula award winners as well as drawing upon popular film and television series like the buck rogers serials abbott s study journeys across the far reaches of science fiction s universe
