presented as a successor to the cold war era book an introduction to strategic studies this volume explores issues of military security through a framework that links the issues of technology and world politics arguing that the technological aspect of the global strategic environment is partway through a centuries long process of transformation sped up by the advent of the information age the authors examine such issues as different levels of industrial development on security what they argue is the relative infrequency of the use of force between states the use of military threats such as mass destruction concepts that military means create problems in themselves such as fear of war and insecurity and finally ways in which regulatory schemes such as disarmament can be put to use to solve some of those problems paper edition unseen 22 50 annotation copyrighted by book news inc portland or this title was first published in 2002 this work uses the concept of the arms dynamic to identify and assess the various factors which influenced arms acquisitions of southeast asian states during the second cold war period from 1979 to 1989 providing an essential basis for understanding contemporary developments the book provides a comprehensive and systematic explanation of the reasons for arms purchases in se asia during the 1980s and aims to fill a gap in the literature by fully exploring arms procurement processes in the region prior to the end of the cold war this volume provides the first comprehensive history of the arms racing phenomenon in modern international politics drawing both on theoretical approaches and on the latest historical research written by an international team of specialists it is divided into four sections before 1914 the inter war years the cold war and extra european and post cold war arms races twelve case studies examine land and naval armaments before the first world war air land and naval competition during the 1920s and 1930s and nuclear as well as conventional weapons since 1945 armaments policies are placed within the context of technological development international politics and diplomacy and social politics and economics an extended general introduction and conclusion and introductions to each section provide coherence between the specialized chapters and draw out wider implications for policymakers and for political scientists arms races in international politics addresses two key questions what causes arms races and what is the connection between arms races and the outbreak of wars in this book the authors set forth a new model of globalization that lays claims to supersede existing models and then use this model to assess the way the processes of globalization have operated in different historic periods in respect to political organization military globalization trade finance corporate productivity migration culture and the environment each of these topics is covered in a chapter which contrasts the contemporary nature of globalization with that of earlier epochs in mapping the shape and political consequences of globalization the authors concentrate on six states in advanced capitalist societies since the united states the united kingdom sweden france germany and japan for comparative purposes other states particularly those with developing economies are referred to and discussed where relevant the book concludes by systematically describing and assessing contemporary globalization and appraising the implications of globalization for the sovereignty and autonomy of states it also confronts directly the political fatalism that surrounds much discussion of globalization with a normative agenda that elaborates the possibilities for democratizing and civilizing the unfolding global transformation an introduction to strategic studies addresses some of the major questions that govern both international relations and human survival this book provides a comprehensive introduction to the core concepts of contemporary strategic thinking it argues that strategic studies is about the impact of military technology on relations between states and that its specialised contribution must always be seen within the broader context of international economic and political relations this innovative new text is derived from a highly successful open university course of the same title it takes as a dominant theme the contested issue of globalization the apparent intensification of global patterns of inter dependence and its implications for the autonomy of the modern nation state following a conceptual introduction which critically examines the theoretical debates framing the study of world politics the work is structured around four key processes of globalization which the authors identify as being the central determinants of contemporary global politics these key processes are the global impact of great power relations the globalizing tendencies of technological innovation the existence of a global economy and the globalizing force of modernity reflecting this structure the text is organized into four discrete sections each section explores both theoretically and empirically one of the four processes of globalization throughout particular attention is paid both to a critical evaluation of these globalizing processes as well as to their consequences for the sovereignty and autonomy of the modern nation state moreover the authors combine a lucid treatment of theoretical debates with topical case study material to produce a text which is extremely accessible to undergraduate students studying international relations and politics and to those readers with little prior knowledge of world affairs this reader brings together key contributions from many of the leading scholars in the field offering students an informed overview of the most significant work in security studies the editors chart the development of the key theoretical and empirical debates in security studies in the cold war and post cold war periods introducing the ideas of the most influential past masters and contemporary thinkers on security in the uk us and elsewhere the book is divided into five areas what is security security paradigms security dimensions and issues security frameworks and actors the future of security in order to guide students through the issues the book has a substantial critical introduction exploring the development of security studies as well as introductory essays that provide an overview of each section highlighting clearly how the readings fit together suggestions for further reading and key questions for discussion are also included security studies is an invaluable resource for all students of security studies and international relations for students of strategic studies in small countries with limited financial human and military resources the available literature on strategic studies in particular texts that seek to explain the key concepts and components of strategic studies can be very alien in its focus to the strategic conditions and issues that these countries face this book contains a collection of essays that seeks to discuss key concepts in strategic studies as well as contemporary challenges in strategy and defence policy from the perspective of small states it is based on the idea derived from the german philosopher of war carl von clausewitz that there is a distinction between logic and grammar while the field of strategic studies contains a number of key concepts such as geopolitics and geostrategy strategic culture arms dynamics and the phenomenon of military modernization that are universal in logic the grammar that is the specific manifestations of these concepts in the contexts of small states is necessarily different from larger more materially endowed states related link s
