in this dazzling collection nam le takes us across the globe as he enters the hearts and minds of characters from all over the world whether it s the story of fourteen year old juan a hit man in colombia an ageing painter in new york mourning the death of his much younger lover or a young refugee fleeing vietnam crammed in the ship s hold with two hundred others the result is unexpectedly moving and powerful this is an extraordinary work of fiction that takes us to the heart of what it means to be human un australian fictions sets out to analyse a subset of australian literary fictions published between 1988 and 2008 from the bicentenary of british settlement to the global financial crisis and into a new millennium during a new transnational era australian s faced sober and unsettling times already accorded the status of national obsession issues of national identity were vigorously contested concepts such as the nation multiculturalism and globalisation became topics for heated discussion in the public sphere australia s literary communities were not immune or isolated from these ongoing discussions the un australian fictions which this book studies represent the challenges which these texts in their own unique way bring to the australian national ethos and the national mythology which is predicated on traditions such as masculism a bush ethos the pre eminence of white colonial settlement connectedness to an imaginative european geography as well as an unbreakable tie to britain as un australian fictions these texts reflect the destabilisation of what were once certain spatial and psychic borders and orders of australianness they affect as well as reflect the wider conversation that continues today about what being australian means in a new millennium this book traverses the cultural landscape of colombia through in depth analyses of displacement local and global cultures human rights abuses and literary and media production through an exploration of the cultural processes that perpetuate the darker side of latin america for global consumption it investigates the condition that has led writers filmmakers and artists to embrace purposefully or not the incessant violence in colombian society as the object of their own creative endeavors in this examination of mass marketed cultural products such as narco stories captivity memoirs gritty travel narratives and films herrero olaizola seeks to offer a hemispheric approach to the role played by colombia in cultural production across the continent where the illicit drug trade has made significant inroads to this end he identifies the colombian condition within the parameters of the global economy while concentrating on the commodification of latin america s violence for cultural consumption the open access version of this book available at taylorfrancis com has been made available under a creative commons attribution non commercial no derivatives 4 0 license this monograph is the first major study of a pervasive but overlooked figure in postwar american fiction the blocked writer it argues that the impacts of this character are as diverse as its many variants in postwar postmodernist and contemporary literature with chapters analyzing writer s block in works by authors such as philip roth lucy ives ben lerner and salvador plascencia it reveals how authors have used the figure of the blocked writer to critique modern forces that might constrain a writer s creativity including rigid dogma in mfa programs and ethnic stereotyping in the publishing industry in doing so the book offers fresh perspectives on autofiction metafiction and novelistic engagements with literary institutions and culture in addition the book also demonstrates how representations of writer s block might offer practical lessons such as what it takes to overcome perfectionism how to break one s reliance on inspiration and how to transform one s frustrations into rich material for analysis or adaptation in order to reveal the critical and practical insights embedded in representations of writer s block this book utilizes methodologies from both english and writing studies challenging the tendency in academia today to separate the study of literature from the study of writing by reading fiction through a writing studies lens the book argues english gains a sharp perspective on an essential but overlooked literary archetype and by considering the lessons in composition found in representations of blocked writers it demonstrates how literary texts might provide writing studies with a valuable examples for understanding how writing practices blocks and breakthroughs work provided by publisher an explosive devastating debut poetry book from the winner of the dylan thomas prize 36 ways of writing a vietnamese poem is an urgent unsettling reckoning with identity and the violence of identity for le a vietnamese refugee in the west this means the assumed violence of racism oppression and historical trauma but it also means the violence of that assumption of being always assumed to be outside one s home country culture or language and the complex violence for the diasporic writer who wants to address any of this of language itself making use of multiple tones moods masks and camouflages le s poetic debut moves with unpredictable and destabilizing energy between the personal and political as self indicting as it is scathing hilarious as it is desperately moving this is a singular breakthrough book the shan are the largest of the many national ethnic groups residing in the union of myanmar after migrating from their early home in the hwangho yangtze region of china they settled in the eastern part of today s myanmar primarily in the shan plateau around the first century ad the shan dominated the political stage for a few centuries founding three historically important dynasties in the heartland of myanmar at pinya sagaing and inwa shan history then merges with that of myanmar until after world war ii and myanmar s independence from the british when the shan initiated efforts to establish an autonomous state sai aung tun deftly traces the cultural and political history of the shan people from their origins to myanmar independence and up to the constitutional crisis of 1962 his work highlights particularly the political affairs of the shan state from 1946 to 1962 he details the second pang long conference of 1947 which brought about the historic agreement of all the nationalities of myanmar to work together for independence he examines the significant role played by the shan people in the debate on whether myanmar should adopt a federal system of administration and their efforts to draft a new constitution he concludes with an account of the military coup of 1962 which effectively sabotaged the constitutional reform process a stalemate that still persists today unique among shan histories is the in depth analysis of the kuomintang incursion into the shan states in the early 1950s with its political military and economic consequences sai aung tun has amassed a substantial amount of primary materials in the text proper including verbatim excerpts from conference interviews and speeches as well as a rich collection of official documents minutes and reports in the appendixes the historical critique of existing constitutional weaknesses will be of interest to those who advocate the drafting of a new constitution in myanmar the pleas for unity and goodwill among the ethnic groups made by various leaders nearly half a century ago will resonate with readers today this comprehensive reference work will be an invaluable resource for all shan scholars and myanmar observers and an excellent addition to any reference collection on southeast asia
