the renaissance was a period of great intellectual change and innovation as philosophers rediscovered the philosophy of classical antiquity and passed it on to the modern age renaissance philosophy is distinct both from the medieval scholasticism based on revelation and authority and from philosophers of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries who transformed it into new philosophical systems despite the importance of the renaissance to the development of philosophy over time it has remained largely understudied by historians of philosophy and professional philosophers this anthology aims to correct this by providing scholars and students of philosophy with representative translations of the most important philosophers of the renaissance its purpose is to help readers appreciate philosophy in the renaissance and its importance in the history of philosophy the anthology includes translations from philosophers from the thirteenth to the seventeenth centuries and it ranges from works on moral and political philosophy to metaphysics epistemology and natural philosophy thereby providing historians and students of philosophy with a sense for the nature breadth and complexity of philosophy in the renaissance each translation is accompanied by an introduction by a historian of the volume results from a seminar sponsored by the foundation for intellectual history at the herzog august bibliothek wolfenbüttel in 1992 starting with the theory of regressus as displayed in its most developed form by william wallace these papers enter the vast field of the renaissance discussion on method as such in its historical and systematical context this is confined neither to the notion of method in the strict sense nor to the renaissance in its exact historical limits nor yet to the aristotelian tradition as a well defined philosophical school but requires a new scholarly approach thus besides galileo zabarella and their circles which are regarded as being crucial for the emergence of modern science in the end of the 16th century the contributors deal with the ancient and medieval origins as well as with the early modern continuity of the renaissance concepts of method and with non regressive methodologies in the various approaches of renaissance natural philosophy including the lutheran and calvinist traditions
