an hour before deal sanderson had opened his eyes he had been comfortably wrapped in his blanket his head had been resting on a saddle seat his sleep over he had discovered that the saddle seat felt hard to his cheek in changing his position he had awakened his face toward the east he had seen a gray streak widening on the horizon a herald of the dawn sanderson found what seemed to be a softer spot on the saddle snuggled himself in the blanket and went to sleep again of course he had not neglected to take one sweeping glance around the camp while awake and that one glance had convinced him that the camp was in order the fire had long since gone out there was a heap of white ashes to mark the spot where it had been his big brown horse streak unencumbered by rope or leather was industriously cropping the dew laden blades of some bunch grass within a dozen yards of him and the mighty desolation of the place was as complete as it had seemed when he had pitched his camp the night before sanderson reveled in the luxury of complete idleness he grinned at the widening streak of dawn as he closed his eyes there would be no vitriolic voiced cook to bawl commands at him this morning and no sour faced range boss to issue curt orders in an hour or so perhaps in two hours sanderson would crawl out of his blanket get his own breakfast and ride northeastward he was a free agent now and would be until he rode in to the double a to assume his new duties the air in the pullman was hot and despite the mechanical contrivances built into the coach to prevent such a contingency the dust from the right of way persisted in filtering through crevices even the electric fans futilely combated the heat their droning hum bespoke terrific revolutions which did not materially lessen the discomfort of the occupants of the coach and the dry dead dust of the desert the glare of a white hot sun the continuing panorama of waste land rolling past the car windows afforded not one cool vista to assuage the torture of travel for hours after leaving kansas city several of the passengers had diligently gazed out of the windows but when they had passed the vast grass plains and had entered the desert where their eyes met nothing but endless stretches of feathery alkali dust beds of dead lava and clumps of cacti with thorny spire and spatula blade defiantly upthrust as though in mockery of all life the passengers drew the shades and settled down in their seats to endure the discomfort of it all there were fifty thousand acres within view of the ranchhouse virgin grass land dotted with sage running over a wide level into little hills and so on to an upland whose rise was so gradual that it could be seen only from a distance best from the gallery of the ranchhouse the first tang of autumn was in the sage scented breeze that swept the county and the tawny valley basking in the warm sunlight that came down from a cloudless sky showed its rugged beauty to advantage kane lawler paused at the edge of the gallery and filled his lungs from the sage laden breeze and then wheeled to face his mother she smiled at him have you seen ruth hamlin lately kane lawler s lips opened then closed again tightly and by that token mrs lawler knew that something kane had been on the point of saying never would be said for she knew her son as no other person in the country knew him kane lawler was big from the broad shoulders that bulged the gray flannel shirt down the yellow corduroy trousers that encased his legs to the tops of the boots with their high heels and dull roweled spurs lawler looked what he was a man who asked no favors of his kind in the border legion zane grey masterfully weaves a gripping tale of rugged individualism set against the backdrop of the american west this action packed narrative unfolds in the untamed territory of idaho during the early 20th century where themes of love lawlessness and redemption intertwine grey s vivid descriptions and lyrical prose convey the stark beauty of the landscape while immersing readers in the raw often brutal realities of frontier life the novel not only serves as a classic western adventure but also reflects the socio cultural tensions of its time including the getting up the shoulder of the mesa was no easy job but judging from the actions and appearance of wiry pony and rider it was a job that would be accomplished for part of the distance it is true the man thought it best to dismount drive the pony ahead of him and follow on foot at length however they reached the top of the mesa and after a breathing spell the man mounted and rode across the table land a short lope brought pony and rider to a point where the mesa sloped down again to meet a plain that stretched for miles to merge into some foothills a faint trail came from somewhere through the foothills wound over the plain and followed a slope that descended to a river below the rider crossed the stream led over a level up another slope to another plain and so away into the distance up and down the river the water ran deeply in a canyon the painted buttes that flanked it lending an appearance of constriction to its course but at the crossing it broadened formidably and swirled splashingly around numerous rocks that littered its course
