after the modernist literary experiments of her earlier work virginia woolf became increasingly concerned with overt social and political commentary in her later writings which are preoccupied with dissecting the links between patriarchy patriotism imperialism and war this book unravels the complex textual histories of the years 1937 three guineas 1938 and between the acts 1941 to expose the genesis and evolution of virginia woolf s late cultural criticism fusing a feminist historicist approach with the practices and principles of genetic criticism this innovative study scrutinizes a range of holograph typescript and proof documents within their historical context to uncover the writing and thinking processes that produced woolf s cultural analysis during 1931 1941 by demonstrating that woolf s late cultural criticism developed through her literary experimentalism as well as in response to contemporary social political and economic upheavals this book offers a fresh perspective on her emergence as a cultural commentator in her final decade and paves the way for further genetic enquiries in the field in the labors of modernism mary wilson analyzes the unrecognized role of domestic servants in the experimental forms and narratives of modernist fiction by virginia woolf gertrude stein nella larsen and jean rhys examining issues of class gender and race in a transatlantic modernist context wilson brings attention to the place where servants enter literature the threshold in tracking their movements across the architectural borders separating indoors and outdoors and across the physical doorways between rooms wilson illuminates the ways in which the servants who open doors symbolize larger social limits and exclusions as well as states of consciousness the relationship between female servants and their female employers is of particular importance in the work of female authors for whom the home and the novel are especially interconnected sites of authorization and domestication modernist fiction wilson shows uses domestic service to tame and interrogate not only issues of class but also the overlapping distinctions of racial and ethnic identities as woolf stein larsen and rhys use the novel to interrogate the limitations of gendered domestic ideologies they find they must deploy these same ideologies to manage the servant characters whose labor maintains the domestic spaces they find limiting thus the position of servants in these texts forces the reader to recognize servants not just as characters but as conditions for the production of literature and of the homes in which literature is created with the ever increasing amount of media children are consuming it has become important for parents to learn how to help them navigate this consumption productively all too often the only approach to screen time by parents is a question of limiting how much and what kind instead if parents and educators can adopt a more nuanced relationship to media and education adults and children can come together in order to engage with and deconstruct the messages that are embedded in popular culture this enables children to become more informed citizens this collection seeks to do just that by providing a series of essays on strategies to engage children with varying topics and programming to ensure that media consumption is an active process that promotes social and political awareness instead of apathetic entertainment
