this book faithfully represents the teaching of roman catholicism on the church s doctrinal authority while pointing to areas where there remains a gap between an ecclesiological vision of the church informed by vatican ii and the popular understanding and concrete exercise of that authority in the life of the church today the aim of this publication is an analysis of the process of european constitutionalisation and its entanglement with relevant national discourses thus national constitutional traditions in austria france germany and the united kingdom are evaluated with regard to the positions of the respective national representatives in the european convention interviews with members of national parliaments and of the european parliament as well as a content analysis of the debate on the future of europe in print media form the empirical basis of this study the voices in this book belong to parliamentarians city councillors doctors and engineers a few professors lawyers and social workers owners of small businesses translators and community activists they are also all muslims who have decided to become engaged in political and civic organizations and for that reason they constantly have to explain themselves mostly in order to say who they are not they are not fundamentalists not terrorists and most do not support the introduction of islamic religious law in europe especially not its application to christians this book is about who these people are and what they want this book is based on three hundred interviews with european muslim leaders from six european countries sweden denmark the netherlands great britain france and germany the question of islam in europe is not a matter of global war and peace but raises difficult questions about the positions of christianity and islam in public life and about european identities europe s muslim political leaders are not aiming to overthrow liberal democracy and to replace secular law with islamic religious law those are the positions of a minority there is not one muslim position on how islam should develop in europe but many views and most muslims are rather looking for ways to build institutions that will allow european muslims to practice their religion in a way that is compatible with social integration in contrast to the common perception that the united nations is or should become a system of collective security this paper advances the proposition that the un security council embodies a necessarily selective approach analysis of its record since 1945 suggests that the council cannot address all security threats effectively the reasons for this include not only the veto power of the five permanent members but also the selectivity of all un member states their unwillingness to provide forces for peacekeeping or other purposes except on a case by case basis and their reluctance to involve the council in certain conflicts to which they are parties or which they perceive as distant complex and resistant to outside involvement the council s selectivity is generally seen as a problem even a threat to its legitimacy yet selectivity which is rooted in prudence and in the un charter itself has some virtues acknowledging the necessary limitations within which the security council operates this paper evaluates the council s achievements in tackling the problem of war since 1945 in doing so it sheds light on the division of labour among the council regional security bodies and states and offers a pioneering contribution to public and governmental understanding of the un s past present and future roles
