life and death in freud and heidegger argues that mortality is a fundamental structuring element in human life the ordinary view of life and death regards them as dichotomous and separate this book explains why this view is unsatisfactory and presents a new model of the relationship between life and death that sees them as interlinked using heidegger s concept of being towards death and freud s notion of the death drive it demonstrates the extensive influence death has on everyday life and gives an account of its structural and existential significance by bringing the two perspectives together this book presents a reading of death that establishes its significance for life creates a meeting point for philosophical and psychoanalytical perspectives and examines the problems and strengths of each it then puts forth a unified view based on the strengths of each position and overcoming the problems of each finally it works out the ethical consequences of this view this volume is of interest for philosophers mental health practitioners and those working in the field of death studies the infrastructure of death is an undeniable part of urban life yet it is often overlooked in the study of cities this book explores the intricate dynamics between the living and the dead in six latin american cities bogotá medellín lima buenos aires quetzaltenango and cuenca drawing on more than a decade of ethnographic research the author investigates how urban death infrastructures such as cemeteries and spaces for the deceased are shaped by rapid urbanization legacies of violence neoliberal policies and alternative spiritual practices with a fresh global south perspective this unique contribution will challenge the boundaries of death studies placing the infrastructure of death at the heart of urban life this volume sheds new light on the experience of ancient greek warfare by identifying and examining three fundamental transitions undergone by the classical athenian hoplite as a result of his military service his departure to war his homecoming from war having survived and his homecoming from war having died as a conscript a man regularly called upon by his city state to serve in the battle lines and perform his citizen duty the most common military experience of the hoplite was one of transition he was departing to or returning from war on a regular basis especially during extended periods of conflict scholarship has focused primarily on the experience of the hoplite after his return with a special emphasis on his susceptibility to post traumatic stress disorder ptsd but the moments of transition themselves have yet to be explored in detail taking each in turn owen rees examines the transitions from two sides from within the domestic environment as a member of an oikos and from within the military environment as a member of the army this analysis presents a new template for each and effectively maps the experience of the hoplite as he moves between his domestic and military duties this allows us to reconstruct the effects of war more fully and to identify moments with the potential for a traumatic impact on the individual
