this important study examines the religio political relations between indian muslims and the ottomans between 1877 and 1924 as well as the british attitude towards the pan islamic developments pan islamism is a political movement advocating the unity of muslims under one islamic state often a caliphate or an international organization similar to a european union with islamic principles as a form of religious nationalism pan islamism differentiates itself from other pan nationalistic ideologies for example pan arabism by excluding culture and ethnicity as primary factors towards unification

the research examines pan islamic movement in russia between 1905 1930 the main factors behind its appearance peculiarities and its impact on other leading ideologies of that time such as pan turkism pan turanism and muslim national communism through analyzing the official documents from tsarist and soviet sources records of the all russian muslim congresses between 1905 1924 as well as the thoughts and activities of russia s muslim intellectuals mainly abd al rashīd ibrahimov musa jārullāh ismail gaspralı and mir said sultan galiev in order to examine the works of ibrahimov jārullāh and gaspralı the researcher adopted an inductive and textual analysis method the research found a huge gap between the official portrait of pan islam designed by the tsarist and then enriched by the soviet authorities and its real appearance in russia the tsarist gendarmerie and secret service departments defined the entire intellectual religious social educational and political activities of russia s muslims after 1905 as pan islamism or pan turkism an anti government movement yet as the research exposes pan islamism in the thoughts of russia s muslim intellectuals was formulated as a peaceful ideology no more than emphasizing the necessity for fraternity and solidarity among all muslims of the world also the research suggests that the extensive mushrooming of the call for muslim unity at the beginning of the twentieth century in russia should not be studied in isolation from the fundamental islamic thoughts and universal values of islam such as solidarity justice brotherhood and responsibility of the spiritual and political leaders toward other muslims pan islamism in a russian context was an attempt of local muslims to reinstate the political dimensions of islam in order to strengthen their legal economic religious social and cultural positions against the danger emanating from russian imperialism moreover it establishes that the consideration of pan islamism as an interim period in the universal ideological development of nation formation process and the rise of nationalism is not applicable to the russian case up to the 1920s the large scale movement towards unity of all layers of muslim society of russia went parallel with the growth of nationalism among the people who claimed to be firstly muslim then turkic also there was never in the russian case a natural decline in the hold of religion due to the rise of ethnic national awareness lastly the study underlines that the western classical approach of modeling europe for every small or big event that occurred in other parts of the world led to the distortion of the original shape of pan islamism in the western russian scholarship thus the research emphasizes on the need for an alternative approach for studying pan islamism as well as other political and social developments occurring in the muslim world a study of the pan islamic movement and its impact on the political and social landscape of the middle east and north africa this work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it this work is in the public domain in the united states of america and possibly other nations within the united states you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be
