this book provides an insightful and concise approach to the psychosocial process of death and bereavement this book is the first of its kind to examine key topics in death dying and bereavement through a critical lens highlighting how the understanding and experience of death can vary considerably based on social cultural historical political and medical contexts it looks at the complex ways in which death and dying are managed from the political level down to end of life care and the inequalities that surround and impact experiences of death dying and bereavement readers are introduced to key theories such as the medicalisation of dying as well as contemporary issues such as social movements pandemics and assisted dying the book stresses how death is not only a biological process or event but rather shaped by a range of intersecting factors issues of inequalities in health inequities in support and intersectional analyses are brought to the fore and each chapter is dedicated to an issue that has interdisciplinary resonance thus showcasing the wider sociocultural and political factors that impact this time of life this book is valuable reading for scholars in thanatology and death studies and for those in related fields such as sociology of health medical and social anthropology and interdisciplinary social science courses every living thing must die but only human beings know it this knowledge can bring to the living anxiety and despair or new richness and meaning this volume explores the problems and possibilities of coping with this universal experience written in an engaging and accessible style by leading international scholars and practitioners from within the field of death and bereavement studies this book will have broad appeal providing in a single volume insights from some of the key thinkers within the interdisciplinary field of death dying and bereavement death dying loss and care giving are not just medical issues but societal ones palliative care has become increasingly professionalised focused around symptom science with this emphasis on minimizing the harms of physical psychological and spiritual stress there has been a loss of how cultures and communities look after their dying with the wider social experience of death often sidelined in the professionalisation and medicalisation of care however the people we know and love in the places we know and love make up what matters most for those undergoing the experiences of death loss and care giving over the last 25 years the theory practice research evidence base and clinical applications have developed generating widespread adoption of the principles of public health approaches to palliative care the essential principles of prevention harm reduction early intervention and health and wellbeing promotion can be applied to the universal experience of end of life irrespective of disease or diagnosis compassionate communities have become a routine part of the strategy and service development in palliative care both within the uk and internationally the oxford textbook of public health palliative care provides a reframing of palliative care bringing together the full scope of theory practice and evidence into one volume written by international leaders in the field it provides the first truly comprehensive and authoritative textbook on the subject that will help to further inform developments in this growing specialty in the past most people encountered death at a relatively young age dying relatives were cared for at home and mortality rates were higher today there is much less familiarity with death which increasingly takes place in hospitals hospices and nursing homes this wide ranging and enlightening book offers an exploration of death and dying as human conditions that impact on the individual their significant others and those involved with their care and well being it is aimed at medical and healthcare staff social workers and counsellors as well as social sciences and health psychology students professional health and social care educationalists and anyone with an interest in this topic drawing on aspects of social anthropology history and the social and behavioural sciences the book examines the customs attitudes and beliefs surrounding death and dying emphasis is placed on the unique experience of death for each individual and the book highlights the challenges faced by those who work with people who are dying or those who have experienced loss through death in addition each chapter ends with some reflective questions that allow the reader to consider certain issues at a more personal level aspect is not your ordinary dungeon crawling dragon slaying role playing game aspect focuses on freedom of character development not linear progression its rich mechanics allow for sharpened words as well as sharpened blades duels of social wit and mental cunning as well as strategic physical combat familiar to veteran gamers in recent years there has been a massive upsurge in academic professional and lay interest in mortality this is reflected in academic and professional literature in the popular media and in the proliferation of professional roles and training courses associated with aspects of death and dying until now the majority of reference material on death and dying has been designed for particular disciplinary audiences and has addressed only specific academic or professional concerns there has been an urgent need for an authoritative but accessible reference work reflecting the multidisciplinary nature of the field this encyclopedia answers that need the encyclopedia of death and dying consolidates and contextualizes the disparate research that has been carried out to date the phenomena of death and dying and its related concepts are explored and explained in depth from the approaches of varied disciplines and related professions in the arts social sciences humanities medicine and the sciences in addition to scholars and students in the field from anthropologists and sociologists to art and social historians the encyclopedia will be of interest to other professionals and practitioners whose work brings them into contact with dying dead and bereaved people it will be welcomed as the definitive death and dying reference source and an essential tool for teaching research and

this textbook in the illustrated colour text series offers an integrated treatment of sociology and psychology for medical students it is presented in a much more colourful and graphic format than is usual for books on these two subjects this integration reflects the tendency to teach these two subjects together as behavioural science with an increased stress on the place of medicine in society and on illness as a product of psychological and social circumstances rather than merely a biological phenomenon the book reflects these trends and has been successful and popular with students an integrated treatment of psychology and sociology for medical students in line with the trend towards teaching these subjects as behavioural sciences use of case studies and stop think boxes encourages critical thinking and discussion graphic illustrated colour text presentation style enlivens a subject which most medical students are not keen on this third edition contains a new introduction on the importance and key features of the biopsychosocial model and additional double page spreads on international health and rural health
