in the white woman's other burden kumari jayawardena re-evaluates the western women who lived and worked in south asia during the period of british rule she tells the stories of many well known women including katherine mayo helena blavatsky annie besant madeleine slade and mirra richard and highlights the stories of dozens of women whose names have been forgotten today in the course of this telling jayawardena raises the issues of race class and gender which are part of current debates among feminists throughout the world as african american women left the plantation economy behind many entered domestic service in southern cities and towns cooking was one of the primary jobs they performed feeding generations of white families and in the process profoundly shaping southern foodways and culture in cooking in other women's kitchens domestic workers in the south 1865-1960 rebecca sharpless argues that in the face of discrimination long workdays and low wages african american cooks worked to assert measures of control over their own lives as employment opportunities expanded in the twentieth century most african american women chose to leave cooking for more lucrative and less oppressive manufacturing clerical or professional positions through letters autobiography and oral history sharpless evokes african american women's voices from slavery to the open economy examining their lives at work and at home the enhanced electronic version of the book includes twenty letters photographs first person narratives and other documents each embedded in the text where it will be most meaningful featuring nearly 100 pages of new material the enhanced e book offers readers an intimate view into the lives of domestic workers while also illuminating the journey a historian takes in uncovering these stories jean genet's masterpiece les nègres was first published in 1958 in the midst of the algerian war and first performed at the théâtre de lutèce in paris in october 1959 yet even though the play is more than 50 years old it remains a fundamental contribution to critical race theory as genet unequivocally posits that no matter what a black person does or doesn't do simply to be black in our times is itself a tragedy placing genet in the context of negritude movement race and sex across the french atlantic equally reveals and examines blackness within the african american dialogue with a white french author's provocative questions about race is a black man always black and even more fundamentally what is blackness within this framework to question blackness therefore is to set out on an ontological quest as blackness has become a real living thing in its own right within european ideology social theory and historical consciousness even as les nègres has taken its place as a major text in the francophone and philosophical tradition of writing on race in essence this book concentrates on the way in which language particularly the french language has shaped ideas about race within transatlantic discourses and with its companion continental philosophy has also shaped the historical understanding of discourse on race it navigates between multiple readings of race within the french atlantic using lorraine hansberry's play les blancs dany laferrière's comment faire l'amour avec un nègre sans se fatiguer genet's dialogue with the black panthers and different conceptions of the so called n word race and sex across the french atlantic thus explores how les nègres offered a groundbreaking reading of how race functioned and continues to function as an all pervasive discourse that provides a central principle around which society in general is organized the play stages a deeply self reflexive and critical examination of the very essence of
