critical approaches to food in children's literature is the first scholarly volume on the topic connecting children's literature to the burgeoning discipline of food studies following the lead of historians like Mark Kurlansky, Jeffrey Pilcher, and Massimo Montanari who use food as a fundamental node for understanding history. The essays in this volume present food as a multivalent signifier in children's literature and make a strong argument for its central place in literature and literary theory written by some of the most respected scholars in the field. The essays between these covers tackle texts from the nineteenth century Rudyard Kipling's Kim to the contemporary Dave Pilkey's Captain Underpants series, the U.S. multicultural Asian American to the international Ireland, Brazil, Mexico, spanning genres such as picture books, chapter books, popular media, and children's cookbooks. Contributors utilize a variety of approaches including archival research, cultural studies, formalism, gender studies, postcolonialism, poststructuralism, race studies, structuralism, and theology. Innovative and wide-ranging critical approaches to food in children's literature provides us with a critical opportunity to puzzle out the significance of food in children's literature.

the authors provide strategies, examples, and tools to address the gap between ELLs and texts, socio-cultural differences between teachers and ELLs, and language differences between ELLs and peers.

Digital Learning in High Needs Schools examines the challenges and affordances that arise when high needs school communities integrate educational technologies into their unique settings. Although remote, blended, and networked learning are ubiquitous today, a number of cultural, economic, and political realities from the digital divide and digital literacy to poverty and language barriers affect our most vulnerable and underresourced teachers and students. This book uses critical theory to compassionately scrutinize and unpack the systemic issues that impact high needs schools.
