anita chari revives the concept of reification from marx and the frankfurt school to spotlight the resistance to neoliberal capitalism now forming at the level of political economy and at the more sensate experiential level of subjective transformation reading art by oliver reszler zanny begg claire fontaine jason lazarus and mika rottenberg as well as the politics of occupy wall street chari identifies practices through which artists and activists have challenged neoliberalism's social and political logics exposing its inherent tensions and

contradictions

looking beyond the events of the second intifada and 9 11 this book reveals how targeted killing is intimately embedded in both israeli and us statecraft and in the problematic relationship between sovereign authority and lawful violence underpinning the modern state system it details the legal and political issues raised in targeted killing as it has emerged in practice including questions of domestic constitutional authority the use of force in international law the law of belligerent occupation the law of targeting and human rights law the distinctive nature of israeli and us targeted killing is analysed in terms of the compulsion of legality characteristic of the liberal constitutional state a compulsion that demands the ability to distinguish between legal targeted killing and extra legal political assassination the effect is a highly legalized framework for the extraterritorial killing of designated terrorists that may significantly affect the international law of force this book examines military and civilian actors in international interventions and offers a new analytical framework to apply on such interventions while it is frequently claimed that success in international interventions hinges largely on military civilian coherence cooperation has proven challenging to achieve in practice this book examines why this is the case by analysing various approaches employed by military and civilian actors and discussing the different relationships between the intervening actors and those upon whom they have intervened the work analyses different military concepts such as peacekeeping and counterinsurgency and the often troubled relationship between the humanitarian and military intervening actors it presents a new analytical framework to examine these relationships based on identification theory which illuminates how the interveners represent those they have been deployed to engage as well as their own identity and role as such the book offers an enhanced understanding of the challenges related to civil military cooperation in international interventions as well as a theoretical contribution to the study of interventions more generally this book will be of much interest to students of international interventions military studies peacekeeping security studies and international relations by linking building theory to the emancipatory project of critique advanced by radical thinkers in our time this work investigates the key conceptual and historical elements that culminate in an emancipatory theory of building entitled toward a philosophy of shelter taking marx as its only resource this work proceeds with the conviction that our era is contemporaneous to marx s historical era this means not judging the validity of marx from the perspective of the historical situation but rather demonstrating the validity of a marxian perspective for a singular historical situation as ours this work will therefore translate this perspective into seeing the situation of architecture through the eyes of marx all those concerned with the predicament in our current condition in which architecture must play a major social role in upholding the universal value of what alain badiou calls generic humanity will take an interest in this work in particular architects critics scholars and students inside the field of architecture who would be seeking the application of this universal value to a new theory of building will be a welcoming audience for this work tison pugh examines the intersection of narratology ludology and queer studies pointing to the ways in which the blurred boundaries between game and narrative provide both a textual and a metatextual space of queer narrative potential by focusing on these three distinct yet complementary areas pugh shifts understandings of the way their play pleasure and narrative potential are interlinked through illustrative readings of an eclectic collection of cultural artifacts from chaucer s canterbury tales to nintendo s legend of zelda franchise from edward albee s dramatic masterpiece who s afraid of virginia woolf to j k rowling s harry potter fantasy novels pugh offers perspectives of blissful ludonarratology sadomasochistic ludonarratology the queerness of rules the queerness of godgames and the queerness of children s questing video games collectively these analyses present a range of interpretive strategies for uncovering the disruptive potential of gaming texts and textual games while demonstrating the wide applicability of queer ludonarratology throughout the humanities
