drawing on interviews with civil society organizations and in conjunction with an examination of eu civil society policy and the legal and institutional environment in turkey this book examines eu policies on turkish civil society organizations and highlights the significant constraints and limited impacts of these policies this book explores the existence of gaps between public preferences and institutional designs in democracies and specifically cases in which such gaps are maintained for a long period of time without being challenged by the electorate gaps such as these can be seen in the complex relations between the state and religion in israel and turkey and more specifically in their policies on marriage this line of investigation is interesting both theoretically and empirically as despite their poles apart policies israel and turkey share a similar pattern of institutional dynamics existing explanations for this phenomenon suggested either civil society based arguments or intra institutional dynamics as reasons for the maintenance of such gaps this book enriches our understanding of policy dynamics in democratic systems by introducing a third line of argument one that emphasizes the effective role state institutions play in maintaining such arrangements for long periods often against the public will

this collection brings together legal scholars canonists and political scientists to focus on the issue of public funding in support of religious activities and institutions in europe the study begins by revolving around the various mechanisms put in place by the domestic legal systems as well as those resulting from the european law of human rights and the law of the european union it then goes on to look at state support and particular religious groups the presentation of european and national law is supplemented by theoretical and interdisciplinary contributions with the main focus being to bring into discussion and map the relationship between the funding of religions and the economy and to infer from it an attempt at a systematic examination or theorization of such funding this collection is essential reading for those studying law and religion with particular focus on the countries of the uk france belgium germany italy the netherlands spain and turkey the views expressed during the execution of the religare project in whatever form and or by whatever medium are the sole responsibility of the authors the european union is not liable for any use that may be made of the information contained therein
