essay from the year 2017 in the subject geography earth science economic geography grade 1 7 university of cologne language english abstract just 8 men own same wealth as half the world with this title oxfam published its annual study on global inequality in january this year even if the exact calculation of their numbers is controversial the report itself is shocking in answer to this news the scientific debate about global inequalities as well as economic convergences which emerge within the structures and processes of our global capitalism break out again the nobel laureate joseph stiglitz for example blames global capitalism for this development and sends an appeal for strengthened corporate social responsibility in this essay i therefore want to examine to which extent global capitalism can be seen as the producer of uneven development rather than of economic convergence since the early 1980s the winds of global capitalism became stronger it was a period where developing countries with their mostly inward looking and nationalistic policies suffered deep crisis like the latin american debt crisis as of the early 1980s or the collapse of the soviet bloc in 1991 during this era neoliberal economies of the more developed world built the hegemonic power a journal devoted to the discussion of political economic and sociological questions migration caused by european wars and the collapse of the soviet union is analysed comparatively under the headings of co ethnic migration and ethnically privileged migration particular attention is paid to the question of what happened to these co ethnic groups after their resettlement in their putative ethnic homeland
