the phenomenal success of the east asian newly industrializing economies of korea taiwan hong kong and singapore is now well known and documented their success has been discussed to such an extent that it has become entrenched as part of the folklore of development economics the newly industrializing economies of east asia takes a fresh look at the relevant literature and sifts the rhetoric from the reality in the course of surveying the vast range of writing two competing paradigms become clear the neo classical approach which interprets the east asian economic miracle as the predictable outcome of good policies and the statist perspective which draws attention to the central role of the government in guiding east asian economic development throughout the book the authors mix country specific experiences with broader trends an east asian renaissance by a world bank team led by chief economist for east asia pacific dr homi kharas and economic adviser dr indermit gill is the first comprehensive analysis of the new forces and challenges at play in the region since the bank's seminal report of 1993 the east asian miracle the report argues that regional flows of goods finance and technology are helping even smaller east asian countries reap the benefits of economies of scale and that this regional integration must be encouraged but it also points out that these measures have to be supported by actions at the domestic level to ease the stresses and strains that rapid economic growth leaves in its wake east asia must now turn to the urgent domestic challenges of inequality social cohesion corruption and environmental degradation arising from its economic success in surveying the vast range of writing on the east asian economies and their development paths this book evaluates the competing roles of neo classical approaches and central government intervention in guiding economic development east asian economies of the 1980s and much of the 1990s were among the most competitive exporters of manufactured products and were also able to sustain growth rates far higher than those of other countries developing or industrial however the economic crisis of 1997-98 impacted the economies of these countries although recovery began fairly quickly in some countries others have yet to regain their growth momentum can east asia compete looks at whether or not east asia can restore its near magical performance or is its competitive strength beginning to wane this volume argues that east asian countries have far from exhausted their growth potential however future competitiveness will depend on much greater innovative capability in manufacturing and services innovativeness that is grounded in stronger institutions improved macroeconomic policies and closer regional coordination can east asia compete clearly summarizes the issues currently being debated and provides guidance to east asian economies on how to deal with the policy concerns that lie ahead east asian business in the new world helping old economies revitalize discusses how to conduct business in east asia the main objective of the book is to help american workers and businesses gain competitive advantages in a global marketplace in which the emerging asian economies are rapidly becoming major players the american economy appears to be on decline especially relative to the rapidly rising economies in places such as china to revitalize the american economy and those of the old world we must pay close attention to the economies with which america competes the objective of this book is two fold with an initial focus on the opportunities and challenges of doing business in east asia that includes tactics that will help readers understand asian economies and business practices so that they can compete more successfully in the region secondly the book seeks to teach readers how the u s can learn from east asia in revitalizing its own economy this is what sets the book apart as it analyzes the social institutions in major asian countries including the political economic and cultural institutions and then compares them with the institutions in the u s identifying the strengths and weaknesses of u s institutions and providing strategic and policy recommendations that may help the u s economy and american firms compete in the global marketplace discuss how america and older economies can learn from asia provides a theoretical framework of rule based vs relation based governance to help readers understand the differences in doing business in asia vs doing business in mature economies offers business insights based on the author s business experience in asia approaches the topic from a comparative perspective the importance of east asia in the global economy is now unquestionable and its market expansion driven by a population of nearly 1.9 billion will strongly influence the tempo of international trade and growth of global incomes however while the region s economies have amply demonstrated their potential their future performance is by no means ensured this book offers an in depth analysis of the policy trade offs identified in the recently published can east asia compete wb and oup 2002 the major contribution of the new book to that it shows how stability can be a stepping stone to growth that is led by innovation identifies and analyzes the ingredients of an innovative economy and discusses how these ingredients mesh with government policy and market initiatives emerging east asian economies have seen their share of world exports more than triple during the past quarter century and intraregional trade has driven this growth broad measures of development in east asia have improved at the same headlong pace why push further integration now two economic events of historic proportions provide the context strategic thinking of development in the region following the east asian financial crisis of 1997-98 and the accession of china to the world trade organization policymakers interested in a stable prosperous region are concerned by mildly rising inequality within countries and a widening gap between richer economies and the poorest economies increasingly the development agenda in the region with its focus on growth jobs and social stability and the trade policy agenda with its focus on market access and competitiveness have become intertwined east asian policymakers seek to develop a coherent set of economic policies that can deliver stability growth and regional integration without attempting to be comprehensive east asia integrates offers fundamental strategies that promote cross border flows of trade along with domestic policies on logistics trade facilitation standards and institutions to maximize the impact of these flows on development and distribute the gains from trade widely as the authors demonstrate multilateral and regional trade initiatives must provide a compelling vision of how integration can deliver broadly shared growth and prosperity if they are to succeed in addition they must use the momentum offered by trade agreements to address the links between trade on the one hand and social stability poverty reduction and growth on the other
