books about thinkers require a kind of unity that their thought may not possess this cautionary statement is especially applicable to mikhail bakhtin whose intellectual development displays a diversity of insights that cannot be easily integrated or accurately described in terms of a single overriding concern indeed in a career spanning some sixty years he experienced both dramatic and gradual changes in his thinking returned to abandoned insights that he then developed in unexpected ways and worked through new ideas only loosely related to his earlier concerns small wonder then that bakhtin should have speculated on the relations among received notions of biography unity innovation and the creative process unity with respect not only to individuals but also to art culture and the world generally is usually understood as conformity to an underlying structure or an overarching scheme bakhtin believed that this idea of unity contradicts the possibility of true creativity for if everything conforms to a preexisting pattern then genuine development is reduced to mere discovery to a mere uncovering of something that in a strong sense is already there and yet bakhtin accepted that some concept of unity was essential without it the world ceases to make sense and creativity again disappears this time replaced by the purely aleatory there would again be no possibility of anything meaningfully new the grim truth of these two extremes was expressed well by borges an inescapable labyrinth could consist of an infinite number of turns or of no turns at all bakhtin attempted to rethink the concept of unity in order to allow for the possibility of genuine creativity the goal in his words was a nonmonologic unity in which real change or surprisingness is an essential component of the creative process as it happens such change was characteristic of bakhtin's own thought which seems to have developed by continually diverging from his initial intentions although it would not necessarily follow that the development of bakhtin's thought corresponded to his ideas about unity and creativity we believe that in this case his ideas on nonmonologic unity are useful in understanding his own thought as well as that of other thinkers whose careers are comparably varied and productive march 1998 saw byzantinists gathering together at the university of sussex in brighton for the annual symposium held by the society for the promotion of byzantine studies their aim was to consider the question of the byzantine outsider some categories of outsiders appear clear and simple those marked out by class race sex religion but these categories are not universals today historians of all periods are examining the ways in which we analyse the divisions in our societies which can determine how we look at societies in the past there is no consensus on who forms the outsider class in modern society it should come as no surprise that there was no consensus in byzantium as to who the outsiders were what they had done to deserve that status and what the result of their attaining it should have been the papers in this collection drawn from the large number presented at the xxxii spring symposium continue the debate about the idea of the byzantine outsider the scholars within theologians historians literary critics and art historians present differing approaches to different aspects of the problem the volume does not aim to have the last word but rather to provoke debate and to open the field any examination of society that uses the concept of the outsider has implicitly within it a concept of the insider by looking at those on the margins it becomes easier to see who were or at least thought they were on the inside iconoclasm the alteration destruction or displacement of icons is usually considered taboo or profane but on occasion the act of destroying the sacred unintentionally bestows iconic status on the desecrated object iconoclasm examines the reciprocity between the building and the breaking of images paying special attention to the constructive power of destructive acts although iconoclasm carries with it inherently religious connotations this volume examines the shattering of images beyond the spiritual and the sacred presenting responses to renowned cultural anthropologist and theorist michael taussig these essays centre on conceptual iconoclasm and explore the sacrality of objects and belief systems from historical cultural and disciplinary perspectives from milton and nietzsche to paul newman and banksy through such diverse media and genres as photography the popular romance novel pornography graffiti cinema advertising and the dictionary this book questions how icons and iconoclasms are represented the language used to describe them and the manner in which objects signify once they are shattered an interdisciplinary disconnected and non linear consideration of the historical and contemporary relationship between the sacred and the profane iconoclasm disrupts entrenched views about the revered or reviled idols present in most aspects of daily life contributors include t nikki cesare schotzko toronto christopher van ginhoven rey pomona college helen hester west london emily hoffman arkansas tech natalie b pendergast yukon college beth saunders maryland adam swann glasgow michael taussig columbia angela toscano iowa brendon wocke perpignan
