the autobiography of the world renowned anthropologist and expert in intercultural communication in a volume that brings together a wide range of disciplines art history sociology architecture cultural anthropology and environmental psychology irene cieraad presents a collection of articles that focuses on the practices and symbolism of domestic space in western society these essays go beyond the discussion of conventional issues such as aesthetics and social standing at home takes an in depth anthropological look at how different cultures use their homes as a visual model of the culture's social structure this innovative reader brings together classic theoretical texts and cutting edge ethnographic analyses of specific state institutions practices and processes and outlines an anthropological framework for rethinking future study of the state focuses on the institutions spaces ideas practices and representations that constitute the state promotes cultural and transnational approaches to the subject helps readers to make anthropological sense of the state as a cultural artifact in the context of a neoliberalizing transnational world in studying material culture anthropologists and archaeologists use meaningful physical objects from a culture to help understand the less tangible aspects of that culture such as societal structure rituals and values what happens when these objects are destroyed by war natural disaster or other historical events through detailed explanations of eleven international case studies the contributions reveal that the absence of objects can be just as telling as their presence while the objects created to memorialize a loss also have important cultural implications covering everything from organ donation to funerary rituals to prisoners of war the archaeology of absence is written at an important intersection of archaeological and anthropological study divided into three sections this volume uses the presence of absence to compare cultural perceptions of material qualities and created memory the mind body connection temporality

and death this rich text provides a strong theoretical framework for anthropologists and archaeologists studying material culture landscape has long had a submerged presence within anthropology both as a framing device which informs the way the anthropologist brings his or her study into view and as the meaning imputed by local people to their cultural and physical surroundings a principal aim of this volume follows from these interconnected ways of considering landscape the conventional western notion of landscape may be used as a productive point of departure from which to explore analogous ideas local ideas can in turn reflexively be used to interrogate the western construct the introduction argues that landscape should be conceptualized as a cultural process a process located between place and space foreground actuality and background potentiality image and representation in the chapters that follow nine noted anthropologists and an art historian exemplify this approach drawing on a diverse set of case studies these range from an analysis of indian calendar art to an account of israeli nature tourism and from the creation of a metropolitan gaze in nineteenth century paris to the soundscapes particular to the papua new guinean rainforests the anthropological perspectives developed here are of cross disciplinary relevance geographers art historians and archaeologists will be no less interested than anthropologists in this re envisaging of the notion of landscape an ever increasing proportion of our lives is spent in supermarkets airports and hotels on motorways or in front of tvs computers and cash machines this invasion of the world by what marc aug[8] calls non space results in a profound alteration of awareness something we perceive but only in a partial and incoherent manner aug[8] uses the concept of supermodernity to describe a situation of excessive information and excessive space in this fascinating essay he seeks to establish an intellectual armature for an anthropology of supermodernity decolonizing anthropology is part of a broader effort that aims to advance the critical reconstruction of the discipline devoted to understanding humankind in all its diversity and commonality the utility and power of a decolonized anthropology must continue to be tested and developed may the results of ethnographic probes the data the social and cultural analysis the theorizing and the strategies for knowledge application help scholars envision clearer paths to increased understanding a heightened sense of intercultural and international solidarity and last but certainly not least world transformation
