this book presents a new constitutional argument for the legitimacy of evolutive interpretation of the echr it constructs a model in which evolutive and static constitutional principles are balanced with each other the author argues that there are three possible interpretive approaches in time sensitive interpretations of the echr but that only one of them is justifiable by reference to the constitutional principles of the echr in every single case the echr s constitutional principles either require an evolutive or static interpretation or they do not establish a preference relation at all which leads to a margin of appreciation of the member states in the interpretation of the convention the balancing model requires the determination of the weights of the competing evolutive and static constitutional principles for this purpose the author defines weighting factors for determining the importance of evolutive or static interpretation in a concrete case work and object is a study of fundamental questions in the metaphysics of art notably how works relate to the materials that constitute them issues about the creation of works what is essential and inessential to their identity their distinct kinds of properties including aesthetic properties their amenability to interpretation their style the conditions under which they can go out of existence and their relation to perceptually indistinguishable doubles e g forgeries and parodies are raised and debated a core theme is that works like paintings music literature sculpture architecture films photographs multi media installations and many more besides have fundamental features in common as cultural artefacts in spite of enormous surface differences it is their nature as distinct kinds of things grounded in distinct ontological categories that is the subject of this enquiry although much of the discussion is abstract based in analytical metaphysics there are numerous specific applications including a study of jean paul sartre s novel la naus e and recent conceptual art some surprising conclusions are derived about the identity works and about the difference often between what a work seems to be and what it really is
