this book pays homage to the work of a scholar who has substantially advanced knowledge and understanding of the medieval military religious orders alan j forey has published over seventy meticulously researched articles on every aspect of the military religious orders two books on the templars in the corona de aragón and a wide ranging survey of the military religious orders from the twelfth to the early fourteenth centuries his archival research has been especially significant in opening up the history of the military orders in the iberian peninsula this volume comprises an appreciation of forey s work and a range of research that has been inspired by his scholarship or develops themes that run through his work articles reflect forey s detailed research into and analysis of primary sources as well as his work on the military orders the crusades the eastern mediterranean and the trial of the templars further papers move beyond the geographical and chronological bounds of forey s research while still exploring his themes of the military religious orders relations with the church and state this study is the first to examine the relationship between art and violence in 15th century florence exposing the underbelly of a period more often celebrated for enlightened and progressive ideas renaissance florentines were constantly subjected to the sight of violence whether in carefully staged rituals of execution or images of the suffering inflicted on christ there was nothing new in this culture of pain unlike the aesthetic of violence that developed towards the end of the 15th century it emerged in the work of artists such as piero di cosimo bertoldo di giovanni antonio del pollaiuolo and the young michelangelo inspired by the art of antiquity they painted engraved and sculpted images of deadly battles ultimately normalizing representations of brutal violence drawing on work in social and literary history as well as art history scott nethersole sheds light on the relationship between these renaissance images violence and ideas of artistic invention and authorship
