the turn of the 20th century was a time of great change in britain the empire saw its global influence waning and its traditional social structures challenged there was a growing weariness of industrialism and a desire to rediscover tradition and the roots of english heritage a new interest in english folk song and dance inspired art music which many believed was seeing a renaissance after a period of stagnation since the 18th century this book focuses on the lives of seven composers ralph vaughan williams gustav holst ernest moeran george butterworth philip heseltine peter warlock gerald finzi and percy grainger whose work was influenced by folk songs and early music each chapter provides an historical background and tells the fascinating story of a musical life this edited volume explores the historical practical and pedagogical possibilities for expressing and cultivating empathy through works of art while aspects of what we today recognize as empathy has nestled in the artistic experiences and philosophies of all ages the subjective and elusive nature of empathic responses has often resulted in the relegation of empathy to the margins of art historical inquiry moving into the second quarter of the twenty first century amidst global health crises civic unrest political turmoil and persistent social inequities and injustices this capacity to feel with and as someone or something outside of ourselves is more critical than ever probing the very notion of empathy contributions address themes ranging from environmental and social justice to identity and inclusion to transdisciplinary pedagogies and practices each with a critical eye to how works of art not only appeal to empathic sensibilities but might play an active role in developing capacities for empathy in viewers an historically accurate novel about an international showdown between police forces and at the same time a picaresque tale of cops and robbers and life along the Canada-US prairie border at the end of the 19th century. Swedes Ferry is the story of constable Leslie Simpson, a Manitoba-born member of the North West Mounted Police who takes a little time off from his day job to make a quick buck south of the border robbing the first national bank in Bismarck, North Dakota. When he gets away with the Great Northern Railroad payroll but inadvertently kills the bank manager in the process, he winds up battling to stave off the intentions of not only a very nasty Pinkerton agent but the third richest man in the United States. The chase is on across much of the Canadian prairies and the Northern American plains because the bank happens to be owned by Canadian-born James J. Hill, the real-life railroad millionaire who is named in Fitzgerald's The Great Gatsby. Hill crisscrosses the plains on his recently completed railroad with his opera singer and dominatrix travelling companions. He's used to getting what he wants and keeping what he has, so when he loses his Great Northern payroll in Bismarck, what he most wants is for the vicious William Pinkerton and his sleazy henchman Jiggs Dubois to bring him the head of the varmint that took it. This is fascinating historical fiction full of detailed information about the prairie border country, the people, the horses, and the weaponry, as well as the customs and cultural peccadilloes of the day in neighbouring nations that are developing in very different ways.

In the contemporary West, the elderly are regarded as somehow other, no longer who they used to be, no longer full members of the worlds they once inhabited. Being old is seen as a medical management issue, but old age is not a defective version of what preceded it. It is like childhood, adolescence, and middle age: its own time of life with its own challenges and gifts. It is an unexpected experience and largely unknown terrain. Winter Light on Late Life's Radiance is an exploration of old age as a time when sudden and uncontrollable losses reveal and clarify patterns of existence formerly obscured. In this context, Penick tells of the lives of artists, musicians, and others who in old age changed radically through visionary modes of experience that otherwise would not have been possible. Near the end of their lives, Titian, Michelangelo, Beethoven, Rabindranath Tagore, Jean Rhys, Andrea Palladio, Paul Cézanne, Leo Janáček, Igor Stravinsky, and others found unforeseen paths and articulated subtleties and beauties never before encountered. Their visions are now woven into our culture and the stories of their lives are signposts for us as thoreau once said not til we are lost not til we have lost the world do we begin to find ourselves and realize where we are and the infinite extent of our relations in five essays concerned respectively with body connection pattern loss and vision winter light explores irretrievable losses and dawning possibilities penick gives voice to aspects of the inner life that in old age unfold with unanticipated depth breadth strangeness and light
